

Khrushchev Hits At Ex-Premiers as 'Anti-Party Group'

Blames Them For Failures
In Agriculture

BY HAROLD K. MILKS

Moscow—(AP)—Nikita Khrushchev has hurled a bitter new attack at the Malenkov-Molotov "anti-party group," blaming it for major shortcomings in Soviet agriculture.

Khrushchev's new blast, made at a meeting yesterday of the Soviet communist party's central committee, came after a new press campaign against the five high officials Khrushchev toppled from power in the Kremlin shakeup in July, 1957.

Accounts of the speech today in Tass, the Soviet news agency, gave no indication of whether further measures would be taken against the five men—former Premiers Malenkov and Bulganin, former Foreign Ministers Molotov and Dimitri Shepilov and former Economic Czar Lazar Kaganovich. All have been banished to obscure posts in the Soviet Union.

Serov Not Mentioned
Nor was there any mention of Gen. Ivan Serov, who was removed last week from his key post as chief of state security, the Soviet Union's top police official. Serov's future has not been announced, but so far he has not been linked with the anti-party group.

Khrushchev claimed Malenkov, Molotov and their disgraced associates:
1. "Tried to stifle the patriotic movement for catching up with the United States in per capita production of livestock produce."

2. Opposed the virgin lands project, a pet Khrushchev scheme which he boasted had proved the key factor in bringing a record grain production of 140 million tons this year.
3. Attempted to "revise the party's general Leninist line on basic issues of the country's development." (In this he said they "failed ingloriously.")

4. "Stubbornly opposed for a number of years the realization of important measures in agriculture and thereby retarded the development of the Soviet economy."

Assails Malenkov
The group, he continued, was responsible for "the difficult situation in agriculture that developed by 1953." He accused Malenkov of deceiving the party to cover up his failures.

Khrushchev assailed Molotov for proposals that each region should be self-sufficient in potato production and for advocating an increase in state loans to the countryside. These measures, he declared, "led collective farms to ruin and affected the political sentiments of collective farmers."

"Many other proposals were made which in effect tended to hamstring agriculture," the premier asserted.

Khrushchev boasted that despite the shortcomings in various fields of agriculture, the Soviet Union already is ahead of the United States in total production of wool, butter, milk and cotton.

The committee meeting, which is continuing, is a preliminary to the meeting next week of the Soviet parliament, the supreme soviet. It will meet to approve Khrushchev's new 7-year economic plan, an educational program that may include provision of more labor for farms and factories, and related programs.

Youth Admits He Killed 5 In California

'Just Flipped,' He Says During His Confession to Police

San Diego, Calif. —(AP)—Thomas Pendergast stared at the lanky, pimply-faced youth who had just confessed slaying Pendergast's wife and four children.

"Why did you do it?" he screamed. "They were all I had in the world."

Young Carl Eder slumped in his chair at the police station. His mouth opened and shut several times but no sound came out. Finally he blurted:

"I . . . I didn't want to, Tom."

The meeting between Pendergast and the 16-year-old runaway New Yorker he had befriended came last night after Eder had been captured in a beach community a few miles north of San Diego.

Sought Since Friday
The police had been looking for him since Friday when the bodies of Mrs. Lois Pendergast, 37, and her four children were found in their home. The mother had been shot, the children slashed and stabbed with a knife.

The 6-foot 3-inch teenager, whose description had been widely broadcast, was recognized by a resident of Mission beach and arrested by an off-duty policeman and a life-guard. After a brief show of defiance the boy started crying and admitted he was Eder and that he had killed Mrs. Pendergast and the children.

"I just flipped," his captors quoted him as saying.

At the San Diego police station the police said they got a detailed confession from the youth Pendergast picked up as a hitchhiker six weeks ago and took into his home because he felt sorry for him. They said Eder told them he became angry because one of the children, Diane, 4, was making a lot of noise. He stormed into the bedroom and threw the girl on the floor, cutting her head.

Mrs. Pendergast rushed up, took the child into the bathroom to bandage her and told Eder to call a doctor. Instead the youth got a pistol from the garage and came back and shot the mother.

He killed Diane and her brother, Allen, 2, by cutting their throats with a hunting knife. When David, 9, and Tom, 6, came home from school he killed them the same way.

He was waiting outside when Pendergast came home from his job as an aircraft worker and forced him to drive him toward San Diego before the father had a chance to enter the house and find out what had happened.

He escaped from Pendergast at a service station in San Diego.

GOP Makes Peace Offer to Its Maverick Senate Wing

Caucus Decides Strategic Posts
Will Go to Wavering Republicans

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison—Republicans, with numerical control of the state senate, Monday night tried to get actual control by holding a big olive branch to some independent Republicans, also known as mavericks.

For the first time in many years, a member of the strategic committee or committees, according to a Republican GOP senate caucus decision, will be a man who is not counted among the old reliable stalwart Republicans.

The caucus voted to make Sen. Chester Dempsey, of Waukesha county, a Democrat turned Republican who has voted against the Republicans in spite of his label, a member of the committee that will determine the standing committee assignments in the upper house for the 1959 legislative session.

The committee, in effect, will organize the senate. Last Stronghold
That fact, aside from the ambitions of individual members to hold prize committee places, is important because the senate is the last stronghold of the Republican party in state politics.

The Democrats will control the state executive department, with the swearing in of the Gov.-elect Gaylord Nelson on Jan. 5, and they will have a 55-45 advantage over the Republicans in the state assembly.

The pacification of the mavericks.

Goldfine, Secretary Plead Innocent to Contempt Charges

Boston —(AP)—Industrialist Bernard Goldfine and his secretary, Mildred Paperman, pleaded innocent in federal court today to contempt charges for failing to produce records of Goldfine companies for a tax probe.

Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr., began hearing testimony after he turned down motions of Goldfine's attorney, James Kelleher, to quash the contempt charges.

Miss Paperman was named in a petition filed last week by U. S. Atty. Anthony Julian.

Three Drivers Lose Licenses

One Man Fined,
Two Forfeit Bonds
For Drunken Driving

Drivers licenses of three men were revoked for one year this morning in municipal court on charges of drunken driving.

Kenneth Beyer, 20, 128 S. Lee street, was fined $100; Herbert F. Vandenberg, 42, route 2, Kaukauna, forfeited a $118.95 bond; and Nicholas A. West, 46, 515 Grand avenue, Little Chute, forfeited a $143.95 bond.

Beyer was arrested at 2 a.m. Wednesday on W. College avenue after police forced his car to the curb. The pursuit began at W. College avenue and Walnut street when Beyer ignored a traffic signal.

Beyer was unable to take the drunkometer test.

Spinning Wheels
Vandenberg was arrested about 1:40 a.m. Wednesday when county police found him spinning his car wheels on dry pavement in an attempt to back out of a ditch along County Trunk E in the town of Freedom.

He tested 28 on the drunkometer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

West was arrested by Appleton police Aug. 25 after he drove his car into the rear of one waiting for a traffic light to change at Wisconsin avenue and N. Oneida street. A 3-year-old girl in the other car was injured.

He did not take the drunkometer test.

Left-Wing Government Indicated in Morocco

Rabat, Morocco —(AP)—A left-wing government favoring stronger ties with President Nasser's United Arab Republic was in prospect for Morocco today.

King Mohammed V asked Abdallah Ibrahim, leader of the left wing of the istiglal party, to end the North African kingdom's 19-day political crisis by forming a new government.

Attacks by Iraqi Mobs Fail to Halt Rountree's Conferences in Baghdad

BY JOSEPH E. DYANAN

Baghdad —(AP)—U.S. Assistant Sec. of State William Rountree was to hold talks in Baghdad today with Iraqi officials despite a violent reception from middle eastern nations for the street mobs who threw mud-balls, eggs and rock at him.

Rountree on his arrival Baghdad, signs in Arabic and yesterday was greeted by "go a few in English were put up home" howls from thousands. The U.S. embassy limousine demanded that he go home. Papers which better reflect Kassem's views simulated with mud and a win-

France Losing Fight Against Trade Proposal

Objects to British Proposal for Free
W. Europe Market

Paris —(AP)—France appeared today to be backed into a tight corner in her stubborn fight against the British plan to turn western Europe into a free trade area.

France wants to keep British competition out of the common market which goes into operation Jan. 1 with France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg as members.

Britain yesterday threatened a trade war if the common market is not expanded to include the 11 other western European nations of the Organization for European Economic Cooperation (OEEC).

British Elated
The possibility of a trade war apparently cost France the full support of her common market partners.

After nearly 14 hours of negotiations, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville admitted in substance, "France is isolated." Sir David Eccles, president of the British Board of Trade, beamed to reporters. "We are 100 per cent satisfied," he said. "We've got just what we wanted."

The common market institute its first 10 per cent tariff cutback Jan. 1.

$20 Million More Sought in State Aids for Schools

Madison —(AP)—The Wisconsin Legislative council recommended for passage today a bill which would provide an additional $20 million in school aids in the 1959-61 biennium.

The bill is designed to encourage better educational opportunities by giving added aids to consolidated schools which provide better curriculums than they now offer. If adopted by the 1959 legislature, it would boost to about 25 per cent the state's share of educational costs. The state share is now around 21 per cent and communities pay the rest.

The $20 million is in addition to a $20 million boost in state aids, included in the budget of the department of public instruction which is necessary under the present aid formula to finance the increased enrollments in the public schools.

NATO Firm In Rejecting Berlin Plan

BY GEORGE MCARTHUR

Paris —(AP)—The foreign ministers of the Atlantic pact countries today flatly rejected Russian pressure on Berlin but held out the possibility of high-level talks with the Soviet Union on east-west problems.

The western leaders agreed, however, that such talks could not be successful under the threats of any Soviet ultimatum on West Berlin.

Sec. of State Dulles told his colleagues in the North Atlantic Council that Soviet Premier Khrushchev will not risk war over Berlin.

"Therefore we can proceed with confidence," Dulles asserted. He added:

"We must not give an appearance of success to a bold and reckless move. In this respect he (Khrushchev) is like Hitler — if we give him an inch, he will take a mile."

A NATO spokesman said the majority of the 15 foreign ministers agreed with Dulles' position. He described the broad lines in this way:

Ready for Talks

"Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's proposals are unacceptable. The west must stand firm and cannot tolerate the unilateral violation of international agreements. The west is agreed that it is always ready for discussions on the reunification of Germany."

"The allies are strong enough not to be frightened by threats of Soviet propaganda," Dulles said. "The outcome of the short opening meeting was greeted jubilantly by the West Germans."

"It was a first rate meeting," said German Foreign Minister Konrad Adenauer.

The ministers decided there would be further consultation by the Big Three after the NATO sessions to determine how to frame replies to the Berlin votes from Khrushchev.

Complete Agreement

The keynote of the morning session, the NATO spokesman said, was "the complete and unqualified solidarity of the alliance in support of the three powers principally responsible for Berlin."

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano also lines up in support of future talks with the Russians. He said these talks are essential to a solution of the Berlin question which is a world problem, not just a German or European concern.

However, Von Brentano

Booked for investigation of burglary, Vance said he had jammed himself into the top of the vent shortly before 2 a.m. when police climbed to the roof of the building in nearby Sunnyslope to investigate reports of a noise.

GOP Group Spurns 'Peace' Proposal

Ten Republican Senators Promise No Compromise Fight in Bid for Key Jobs in Congress Leadership

Washington—(U)—Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky today spurned a peace offer by Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire in a brewing battle over Republican leadership in the senate.

Bridges, chairman of the senate GOP policy committee, voiced hope something can be worked out to avoid splitting senate Republicans, whose strength has been cut to 34 by the Democratic election sweep last month.

But Cooper pledged a "no compromise" fight.

Cooper is one of 10 Republican senators who yesterday voted unanimously to offer their own candidates for GOP floor leader and four other party leadership posts, including the one Bridges holds.

Back Eisenhower

The 10, who claim additional support in the senate, are strong backers of Eisenhower foreign policy. Most consider themselves liberals, although leaders of the insurgent group backed away from any such tag for their movement.

Bridges, the senior senate Republican, is backing Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois to succeed retiring Sen. William F. Knowland of California as Republican floor leader.

Like Knowland, Bridges frequently has differed with the Eisenhower administration on some phases of its foreign policy. Dirksen, regarded as a conservative, has in recent years been a backer of much of President Eisenhower's foreign policies.

Told of the Cooper group's action, Bridges said he hoped differences could be adjusted before the Republican caucus meets in January to elect officers.

Logical Choice

"I hope something can be worked out so there will be some representatives of all elements in the leadership," Bridges said in talking with newsmen.

"I certainly don't want to start off the new session as senior Republican member with a fight among Republicans."

Bridges said he thought Dirksen was the logical choice for GOP floor leader. But he said he would accept Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, one of the insurgents, as GOP whip. That's the post Dirksen now holds.

But this got a cold reception from Cooper.

"We have made our decision," he said in an interview. "That decision is we are going to submit our slate and that includes the post of floor leader."

"The time has come for a chance in the leadership to one that will offer new ideas and better unity on program and policy. We have a good chance to win."

The group has not yet picked any specific candidates, but is expected to do so when it meets again Dec. 30.

Council Asks State Mental Health Board

Madison—(U)—The legislative council Monday recommended creation of a mental health advisory board to help state and local agencies develop better programs in that field.

Under provisions of a bill recommended to the 1959 legislature, grants would be set up to encourage local community participation in preventive education, diagnostic treatment and rehabilitation in mental health.

The state would pay up to 40 per cent of such a program with local communities paying the rest. The state's contribution would be about $400,000 for the next biennium. The board would be composed of two legislators and seven members named by governor.

The council also recommended construction of a residential treatment center in the Madison area for emotionally distressed children. Cost of the 30-bed center would be about $50,000.

Anti-Freeze Kills Girl, Blinds Boy

West Newbury, Mass. —(U)

State police disclosed today one girl died, one youth was blinded and two other youths were seriously ill from drinking anti-freeze in the mistaken belief it was wine.

Carol Curry, 17, daughter of former Police Chief and Mrs. Buell Curry of West Newbury, died last night at Peter Bent Brigham hospital, Boston, of what state police said was the effects of the anti-freeze.

They said Richard Keller, 17, of Merrimack, lost his sight as a result of partaking of the poisonous liquid at a party attended by some 28 young men and women at the Curry residence Saturday night.

It could not be determined immediately if the loss of sight was permanent or temporary.

Also seriously affected by the anti-freeze were Gene Trafton, 17, and Thomas Bergeron, 16, both of West Newbury.

Keller and Trafton are at Peter Bent Brigham hospital, and Bergeron at the Anna Jacques hospital at Newburyport. All three were listed as in serious condition.

Police Chief Eugene Willis said 24 other boys and girls who were at the party were interviewed by police from West Newbury, Merrimack, Haverhill and Groveland and it was determined none of them had taken a drink from the jug found in the basement of the Curry home during the party.

Catholics Receive Permission to Eat Meat Friday, Dec. 26

Valdian City —(U)— Pope John XXIII has granted Catholics throughout the world special dispensation from the rule of abstinence from eating meat on Friday, Dec. 26, the day after Christmas.

A Vatican announcement said the dispensation was granted, at the request of bishops of many lands, because of the Christmas festivals and celebrations.

Coya's Husband Testifies

Wouldn't Have Signed Letter If He Knew of Background

Washington —(U)— Andy Knutson testified today he would not have signed a "Coya Come Home" letter to his wife, Rep. Coya Knutson (D-Minn.), if he had known the people who were back of it.

Democratic primary but was defeated in the Nov. 4 general election by Odin Langen, a Republican. The house committee is investigating, at her request.

The representative sat quietly in a spectator's chair at today's hearing as her husband, with whom she had been having marital difficulties, took the witness stand. Their adopted son, Terry, 18, sat nearby.

Walter Surrey, attorney for Mrs. Knutson, asked Knutson: "If you had known, in fact, that (Maurice O.) Nelson had really drafted the May 4 release, (the 'come home' letter) if you had known that Democrats who opposed your wife were working with Republicans in the campaign, if you had known that Nelson was working for Langen, would you have signed it?"

"No," Knutson replied quietly. At yesterday's session, he had been "taken" and had been a "dupe" in pleading handwriting expert, testified with his wife in a May 4 press release letter to quit politics and come home to Okie, Minn.

Mrs. Knutson spurned the man of a volunteer committee come home plea, won the tie for Langen.

Delay in Giving Alarm Cited in Chicago Fire

Commissioner Also Claims Mixup in Address Direct Cause of 92 Deaths

Chicago —(U)— A delay in sounding a fire alarm and a mixup in street addresses were cited by Chicago's fire commissioner yesterday as two of the direct causes of the deaths of 89 pupils and 3 nuns in the Our Lady of the Angels school fire.

Had fire fighters reached the school as little as three minutes earlier, Robert J. Quinn told a corner's jury investigating the Dec. 1 fire, there might have been no lives lost.

Firemen were able to save 160 children, he added. Many of the victims were trapped in their second-floor rooms by heavy, black smoke.

Notes Discrepancies
Quinn said that there were "definite discrepancies" as to when the alarm was sounded.

"There were three persons inside the school building who knew of the fire and did not give an alarm immediately," he declared.

He apparently referred to the testimony of Miss Pearl Tristano, 24, a fifth grade teacher, who said she and one of her pupils smelled smoke between 2:35 and 2:40 p.m. She notified a teacher in an adjoining room. The teacher hunted unsuccessfully for the mother superior.

Miss Tristano said she sounded the school alarm, but only after she had led her class out in fire drill formation. The school alarm does not ring in the fire department office.

Telephoned Alarm
When a telephoned alarm did come at 2:42 p.m., said Quinn, the address given was that of the rectory, a half block from the burning school.

Firemen had to waste precious moments, he said, asking where the blaze actually was. Asked why the fire department did not sound an extra alarm as soon as it knew a school was afire, Quinn answered:

"It's a good suggestion, but in a case like this, if he had sent 500 companies on the first alarm, it wouldn't have done much good."

First Minutes
"In fire fighting you win or lose in the first few minutes," Earlier, Robert J. O'Brien, chief of the city's fire prevention bureau, said he believes the fire burned in the school 20 minutes before it was noticed.

Another witness, City Building Commissioner George Ramsey, testified he knew of no overcrowding in the school or in any school in Chicago.

Green Bay May Be Site of GOP Parley in June

Madison—There is a good chance that the Republican state convention next May or June will be held in the new Green Bay Arena, it was reported here last night.

The convention usually attracts from 3,000 to 4,000 delegates, alternates and visitors. Claude J. Jasper, state GOP chairman, told a press conference here that the site has not been finally chosen, but it is known that a site committee consisting of Everett Yerly of La Crosse, Mrs. Mary Ising of Oshkosh and Karl Sturm of Manawa is considering Green Bay.

Ready to Prosecute Pair For Shooting

Charge Convict, Seaman With Murder Of Arthur Molinaro

Kenosha —(U)— Authorities made ready today to prosecute a crippled fugitive convict and a Great Lakes seaman on charges of third degree murder in the slaying of nightclub operator Arthur Molinaro.

Ivo Ivanic, 26, a merchant seaman, was arrested at Muskegon, Mich., Monday and waived extradition to Wisconsin. Joseph F. Kuzel Jr., 36, a crippled convict from Milwaukee, was arrested in a Milwaukee tavern Saturday.

Dist. Atty. Joseph Molinaro said the third degree murder charge might be amended later after Kuzel and Ivanic are questioned at greater length by Kenosha police.

Lakes Sailor
The district attorney said Ivanic was employed on a lakes vessel that stopped at Kenosha. Molinaro said Ivanic did not return to the ship several weeks ago and had remained in the city.

Arthur Molinaro, a distant relative of the district attorney, was shot eight times. He was found on the office floor at his nightclub the night of Dec. 4, his hands bound with his own necktie.

Third degree murder is a crime that occurs during commission of another felony. It is punishable upon conviction by a sentence of not more than 15 years in state prison.

Prison Fugitive
Kuzel has been a fugitive from state prison custody since he fled a hospital at Madison last September. He was injured in an auto accident and requires crutches for walking.

The district attorney said that both men denied any knowledge of the shooting though both have admitted being in the tavern on the night Molinaro was killed.

Police said robbery was the apparent motive for the shooting.

Mrs. Barbara Alice White, 21, a Milwaukee divorcee described as Kuzel's female companion, was arrested and charged with lewd and lascivious conduct.

Jealous Husband Kills German Physics Student

Berkeley, Calif. —(U)— A German physics student was shot to death in a University of California laboratory today and a campus policeman captured a jealous husband who admitted the killing.

The victim was Wolfgang L. Marx, 26, identified by a campus spokesman as a German citizen who served two years in the U.S. Army as an electronics technician in the Far East and came to the university from New York. He had been a research assistant and student at the university.

Captured was John W. Hampton, 31, who said he was unemployed.

Three janitors in Le Conte hall, a physics building, heard shots at 12:50 a.m. and one of them saw a man run out. Another, looking out a window, saw him vault a railing into an 8-foot light well, then climb out and flee.

Police found Marx dead from "at least two bullet wounds."

Anthony Santana of nearby Pittsburgh, a janitor, led Police Sgt. George T. Martin to the light well from which he had seen the gunman flee. Of Oshkosh and Karl Sturm of Manawa is considering Green Bay.

Dedicate New Hospital Where Atom Medicine Will Come Under Tests

Heart of Treatment Center Is Million-Watt Nuclear Reactor.

BY JOHN BARBOUR

Upton, N. Y. —(U)— Atomic doctors today dedicated a new hospital where treatment is measured by the split-second.

Patients will be brought closer to powerful atomic medicines — some that lose their effectiveness only nine seconds after they are created.

The 48-bed hospital is the Medical Research center of the atomic energy commission's Brookhaven National Laboratory.

Its heart is a one million watt nuclear reactor. The reactor is flanked by two cave-like treatment rooms with walls more than two feet thick made with iron-filled concrete.

Measured Doses
Here patients will be wheeled in to receive carefully measured doses of radioactivity, fresh from the nuclear furnace.

Since the nuclear reactor is at the patient's bedside, valuable minutes are saved in working with the short-lived radioactive isotopes.

These elements, emitting high energy rays, can be aimed ed to hit and destroy cancerous cells. Or, they can be used to trace the processes that lead to high blood pressure or obesity. They can follow the mysteries of aging and genetics.

Brookhaven scientists will use these elements for all of these purposes. They will also expose animals such as goats to the different kinds of radiation that can come from a reactor — or a bomb.

New Treatment

The Brookhaven center is not a hospital in the usual sense of the word. Its 30 or 35 patients are referred by outside doctors. They will get the best of treatment — but the results of the treatment and the research into new treatment is the aim of Brookhaven's atomic doctors.

Some very powerful radioactive substances will be brought into play against diseases. Radioactive neon loses half its power after nine seconds, radioactive cadmium after 30 seconds.

But by using such short-term elements, doctors can deliver a big dose of radioactivity in a short time, getting it where they want it — and not hurting surrounding tissue.

Cancer Treatment

In cancer treatment this is most important. The patient is brought under the direct fire of the reactor in one method of treating brain tumors at the Brookhaven Laboratory.

First radioactive boron is fed into the patient. It is absorbed primarily by the tumor cells, not by the surrounding healthy cells.

Homeless neutrons — neutral charged particles from broken uranium atoms — are beamed outward from an open window in the reactor toward the patient's brain.

A neutron is captured by a boron nucleus and for a brief instant a big, overloaded boron atom is formed deep in the brain of the patient. This bloated atom cannot contain itself for long.

In one-thousandth of a millionth of a second, it breaks into a number of particles and a great deal of energy.

The energy — some two million electron volts — occurs in a tiny area only as big as a cell. It destroys the cancerous cell without hurting nearby healthy cells. This reaction happens in many places in the brain of the patient.

See Move To Oust Red Boss

Taipei —(U)— President Chiang Kai-shek and other nationalist leaders were reported to have conferred today on reports that Mao Tse-tung is vacating the post of chairman — or president — of the Chinese Communist government.

Chu Teh
The reports originating from underground sources in whom full trust is placed here had it that Mao would not be renominated for election as government chairman at the people's congress to be held at Peiping in January.

National leaders have accepted the report as authentic.

No Surprise
There was no particular surprise caused by the fact that the reported decision was not publicly announced at the close Monday of the long party central committee conference in Hankow.

This is taken here to indicate: 1. That the party has still to decide how to break the news so that it will not appear that Mao, who will retain his post as party leader, is being downgraded.

2. The party wants to educate cadres, students and other special groups to the idea of Mao stepping out from the government before springing the news on the people at large.

There is speculation that Marshal Chu Teh, 72-year-old soldier turned politician, would be named chairman to succeed Mao.

3 Little Chipmunks Capture Fox Cities

Popular Novelty by Seville and His Animal Friends Top Record Choice

BY DICK DISC
Three little chipmunks have taken the Fox Cities by storm. "The Chipmunk Song" is far and away the No. 1 tune in this area.
"My Happiness," the No. 9 tune last week has moved into second place.
One new tune appears on the chart this week. It's called "I'll Wait for You" and is sung by Philadelphia-born Frankie Avalon.
Here's the Fox Cities' choices in the top 10 list:

1. "The Chipmunk Song" by David Seville and the Chipmunks.
2. "My Happiness" by Connie Francis.
3. "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" by the Platters.
4. "Whole Lotta Loving" by Fats Domino.
5. "One Night" by Elvis Presley.
6. "Lonesome Town" by Ricky Nelson.
7. "Heartbeat" by Buddy Holly.
8. "Problems" by the Everly Brothers.
9. "Tom Dooley" by the Kingston Trio.
10. "I'll Wait for You" by Frankie Avalon.

The nation's pick this week is "Tom Dooley" with the popular "To Know Him Is to Love Him" in second place.
Ten years ago this month one of the big tunes was "My Happiness," also a top tune today. Five years ago, folks were humming "Changing Partners."

Here's a look at some of the new records:
"Donna" by Richie Valens, a pretty new ballad sung with warmth by a new singer, it has all the attributes of a hit and should go far. It reminds one of a tune from last summer called "Judy."

"Sixteen Candles" by the Crests, is another pretty ballad of the "Happy, Happy Birthday" variety. This has a good beat behind it and also features a new group in the vocal spotlight.
"The Land of You and Me" by the Four Esquires. This number moves along at a steady-medium pace and has a good beat backing it up. Good orchestra backing is featured in this follow-up to "Hideaway." The other side,

Salvation Army to be Santa to Children Of Women Inmates

Chicago — Santa Claus will bring toys to children of the 51 mothers who are among the inmates at the state reformatory for women.
The Salvation Army, for the first time on an experimental basis, has stepped in to help imprisoned mothers play Santa to children of 12 and under.
Representatives of the Salvation Army visited the prison at Dwight over the weekend with samples of 14 different toys. Mothers could choose which they wanted, sign the tags and supply addresses of their youngsters. There were 110 children, from 6 months to 12 years old, who have the 51 women inmates as mothers.
The army plans to provide the toys, wrap and mail them. No one would know from where they came, except that the inmates at the state reformatory remembered.
Several women picked toys, but returned to say, "I don't know where my child is. Perhaps you can find him."
One picked out gifts for her two children. But she came back to the army representative and said: "You better scratch me out. I've tried to find them for five months. All the letters are returned."

In Love With Bilko

New York — Singer Julie Wilson will make her first appearance on television in a straight dramatic role Jan. 9 when she plays a movie star desperately in love with Sgt. Ernie Bilko on "The Phil Silvers Show."

To Your Good Health

Boredom, Physical Factor Can Induce Yawning Habit

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have quite a lot of time so I read to a woman who is blind. But as soon as I start to read, I have to yawn. It takes so much time and is embarrassing. What causes this and what can I do to stop it?" — A.H.T."

That's a pretty good question. Like a lot of physical conditions, this is something that can be actuated either by a purely physical factor, or a mental (or emotional) factor, or both. The human machinery isn't simple!
Yawning, technically, is an involuntary deep breath. It usually occurs when one is tired and ought to go to bed and rest.

Oxygen Need

It is, in fact, nature's way of getting more oxygen (air) into the lungs when you need it. When you go to sleep, you use less oxygen because the body is at rest, but you keep on breathing regularly, so you catch up overnight on your oxygen.

That's the physical side. The emotional side is a bit different. I don't understand it very well. I wish I knew somebody who did. The important fact is that when you are bored, you start to yawn. Maybe it is nature's way of saying, "You're bored. You might as well go to sleep."

Perhaps, in your case, the material you are reading is dull to you. Perhaps your sense of duty keeps you reading when you don't really want to.

Maybe you have been bored so often that you have acquired the habit of being bored, and yawning, when you start to read. Besides this, you yourself, with plenty of time on your hands, may be fatigued and bored to start with.

It may help to take a few deep breaths before you go into the room to start reading. Try it.

'Lamp Unto My Feet' Hailed as Top Program

Religious Show Completes Tenth Year on Airwaves

BY CHARLES MERCER

New York — In the hours of Sunday morning, when the majority of Americans are said to be either in church or in bed, there comes one of the best daytime TV programs visible in the entire week, "Lamp Unto My Feet" (CBS-TV).

Obviously not everyone is asleep or at church, for "Lamp Unto My Feet" maintains a healthy audience. Furthermore, it recently completed 10 consecutive years on the air, making it one of the oldest programs. Finally, it deals with an area of human experience that television usually shuns: Religion.

One of the significant things about the non-sectarian program is that it is unsponsored — either commercially or by those who generally are considered religious.

Moral Problems

Although its intent is not evangelical, "Lamp Unto My Feet" is religious in the sense that it is concerned with moral problems. And in its decade the program has revealed the immemorial truth that moral problems are as vast as life itself.

Sometimes it concerns itself and its viewers with the garden variety problems — alcoholism, the role of the aged, the gangs of adolescence. Again it will plunge into the bigger jungle problems of ambition, prejudice and vanity.

"Our whole point," says Producer Don Kellerman, "is to reveal a problem but not try to offer a solution. The 15-minute play that dramatizes a problem would be a shoddy production if it tried to solve it, just as the 15-minute discussion following the play would be morally shoddy if it tried to solve it."

Shoestring Budget

Although it operates on a shoestring budget compared with most TV shows, it regularly obtains the services of renowned performers for a penny of their usual pound fees. For example, Basil Rathbone recently appeared reading from the works of Plato; Edward Mulhare of "My Fair Lady" gave a dramatic reading. Others include Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Eva Gabor, Nina Foch, Siobhan McKenna, Kim Hunter.

The program is deeply in-

Sen. Humphrey Meets Mr. Khrushchev

Observers must wonder whether something more than has been released was discussed during the eight hours which Sen. Hubert Humphrey spent with Premier Khrushchev. So far nothing has been given out which would justify all that chatter.

Apparently Khrushchev reiterated the strength of the Soviet Union in the missile field and nuclear research. He expressed interest both in a summit meeting with President Eisenhower and a visit to the United States. He talked about trade relations and world health.

But surely neither Sen. Humphrey nor the president think any of this is "secret." We most sincerely hope our intelligence system has better means of finding out about Russian weapons and maneuvers than through a chat between an American senator and the Russian premier. There was nothing new in the summit or visit requests except that they showed the smiling mask of Mr. Khrushchev, perhaps carefully arranged at a time just previous to the elections in West Berlin. If they were supposed to influence the voters they failed resoundingly. As far as trade and health are concerned, the Soviet Union will use both in an effort to woo peoples to their side.

There has been suspicion from some observers that the whole Berlin attack was used to hide new purges in the Kremlin which may have begun with the dismissal of Gen. Serov as head of the committee for state security, a rather sensitive position as Mr. Beria discovered in the Kremlin's dungeons. The talk with Sen. Humphrey may have been a part of that picture.

Sen. Humphrey is too smart, we believe, to permit his visit to be used successfully for Russian propaganda purposes. But he is also shrewd enough to realize that maintaining a tantalizing hesitancy about the whole business gives him an aura of inside information and responsibility that won't hurt him as one of those of the list of possible Democratic presidential candidates. Conversations with foreign bigwigs have been used in American political forays for a long time.

The Watchful Opposition

Gov. Thomson has been subjected to some criticism, as a defeated officeholder, for his public statements since the election expressing or implying criticism of the attitudes and proposals of the man who bested him at the polls on Nov. 4, Gov.-elect Gaylord Nelson.

The people will make up their own minds about the appropriateness or lack thereof of the departing governor's remarks, but it may be noted that he made some good sense in his informal press conference at Madison recently when reporters solicited his views on the tax and spending prospects of the state during the next two years.

Commenting on the forecast of a Nelson aide that the state probably will be required to boost the income surtax as an early order of business, Thomson said what all observant citizens know to be true — that we will increase the existing 10.2 per cent top state tax rate at our peril. Wisconsin does not tax in a vacuum. A levy of 12 or 14 per cent or even higher will look painful indeed to anybody who is thinking of moving into Wisconsin from another state — including corporations acquainted with the deep bite of the federal internal revenue service.

The governor also commented, with the air of a man who has suffered these conundrums himself, on the gaping difference between the productivity of present state taxes and the spending demands that will be made on the succeeding administration.

Even if the governor is betraying the pique of a disappointed politician, there is truth in what he implied — that the new governor's difficulties are partly of his own making. He has promised more than it will be easy for him to deliver, and particularly since he has voluntarily circumscribed himself with respect to proposing new revenue sources.

There is utterly no prospect of significant local tax relief by way of greater state money participation in local government, for example, within the present state revenue structure. It is already clear to anyone who is willing to understand that even income tax boosts at the most painful rates won't conveniently accommodate the state's direct obligations — entirely aside from higher subsidies to localities.

The time for a total revamping of the state-local revenue scheme is near. The state needs tax reform and a more balanced tax structure, by way of the sales tax which a heavy majority of other states have levied for years, to stabilize and possibly to moderate the taxes on incomes and on property.

Do Your Christmas Mailing Now!

Many are the reminders to shop early for Christmas, yet we often forget that for many of the same reasons we should mail our Christmas cards and packages now, rather than just before the holiday.

The Christmas season is a tough one for our post offices. The amount of business they must handle suddenly zooms to many times the normal load, yet the size of the post office buildings, the capacity of their equipment is the same. Most post offices put on extra help during December yet there is only so much room, so many trucks and baggage cars that can be used, so there is a limit to how many extra hands can be put to work.

This results in an almost inevitable delay in mail handling and deliveries at this time of the year, and the citizen who waits until the last minute to dump a pile of Christmas cards down the mail chute is taking a big chance that they won't be delivered until too late. Many Christmas packages to loved ones in other parts of the country or the world also fail to arrive on time.

The answer is to mail early, and that means right now. If you still have a package of cards to send out of town, get down to the post office tomorrow for sure, for the deadline for sure delivery before Christmas is right upon us. And you'd better get to work on those local cards too, if you want to be sure they will get to the recipients on time.

Crime Laboratory Costs

The Wisconsin County Boards association is on record as advocating the repeal of Section 165.01 (8) of the Wisconsin Statutes which requires the State Crime Laboratory to make a charge against municipalities and counties for its services.

The association points out that it is often impossible to make a fair and accurate charge. Furthermore, it says, there have been instances in which one county was charged for an investigation which rightfully benefited several counties and the cost should have been divided among them.

The representatives of the counties have made it clear they believe the state should finance the State Crime Laboratory entirely in the same manner it pays for other necessary services. The association is right in this stand. Experience indicates that a very poor county may be the site of a crime requiring extensive investigation. Under the law the county calling for the service must pay the entire bill although the solution of the crime may be of equal benefit to adjacent counties.

But even this discussion of county relationship is quibbling. The fact is quite obvious that the solution of a crime and the apprehension of a criminal are important to everyone in the state. Thus the proper way to handle the cost is for the state to pay the bill. This policy invites greater use of the crime laboratory and thus tends to reduce crime. The state could scarcely make a better investment.

What Others are Saying

Integration Foes See Costly Results

From The Cincinnati Enquirer

The forces behind public school segregation in Virginia have won a battle but may be losing a war. Norfolk residents voted 3-2 in favor of continuing the state's official "massive resistance" to integration. That vote was not, however, too significant, as is indicated by the fact that both sides found encouragement in the result. The segregationists are encouraged because they won, the integrationists because the minority vote was so large. More meaningful for the future is the change of opinion in the Virginia press. Richmond's Times-Dispatch and the News Leader have long supported "massive resistance," but now agree it won't work and are calling for new defensive tactics, including perhaps "limited, local-option integration." In Norfolk the Ledger-Dispatch and Star has also backed away from "massive resistance." Throughout the state, in fact, the press generally now favors a more moderate approach to the problem. Behind this shift of opinion is a growing realization by many parents that their children are missing the education to which all American boys and girls are entitled. The loss is acute in the case of high school seniors who have been planning to go to college next fall. The effect on teachers is demoralizing, and there is a possibility that many will find some other state or other form of work to utilize their talents.

This reaction against "massive resistance" should not be exaggerated. What is happening in Virginia still represents only a minority opinion and does not apply at all to the states of the deep south. Yet more and more Virginians realize the cost of continuing the fight against integration. On the southern state, at least, seems to be getting into the mood for compromise.

State Park Camp Fee Should Depend on Facilities Offered

Editor, Post-Crescent:

According to the press dispatches from Madison recently Conservation Director Lester Voigt has the backing of Gov.-elect Nelson on his bill to charge the campers of this state a fee of $2 per night. Our camping facilities at present are far too few and inadequate to charge such a fee. People by the hundreds and thousands come to the remote areas of Michigan to camp, content with pump water and out-house facilities, but are charged accordingly, 50 cents per night. For a fee of $2 per night the campers are going to expect extra fancy facilities such as showers and wash machines which we just don't have. Several years ago our boys camped at Point Beach and discovered in the morning they had company on their campsite. It was so crowded two more families had to camp on one campsite. In Michigan, all the extra fancy facilities such as showers etc. can be had for $1 per night.

According to the Milwaukee Family Camping association, 50 per cent of their membership are tent campers. Most of them averaged 20 to 25 days of camping each year during a 3-year survey. Their comment on camp rates is this: "Camping families overwhelmingly favor a $1 per night or $5 per week fee for a family campsite providing space for tent, table to be furnished, a camp fire ring, near out-house facilities and pump water." The membership indicated that they were only willing to pay 25 cents more per night for inclusion of such deluxe facilities as laundry, showers, etc.

Camping has been on the increase these past years and should be encouraged by the state instead of discouraging the campers by a $2 fee for the use of our state parks. Tent campers are usually large families who have a great love for the outdoors or they wouldn't put up with the cold rain, bugs and everything else that come with camp life. Isn't that a good beginning for our youngsters? Children interested in camping seldom become anything but a credit to the community.

Gov.-elect Nelson and Conservation Director Mr. Voigt should take a walk around a campsite some summer evening and be inspired by the sight of real family living.

British Show Restraint on Nixon

From The Montgomery, Ala., Journal

British communists tried to incite violence against Vice President Nixon on his visit there, but none materialized.

The impulse to sock Nixon on general principles is international in scope, as his South American tour indicated; he also arouses widespread distaste among fellow Americans, which happily has not been carried as far as physical violence. The British public also showed commendable restraint.

GOP Chuckling Over Democrat Problems

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The public budget hearings held by Gov.-elect Gaylord Nelson during the last fortnight have made it crystal clear that the state agencies will be lucky, with the aggregate of demands that faces him, if they get even nominal increases in their spending allowances for the next two years.

The dispatches have made that obvious to anyone who is even remotely interested. What they have left unsaid, however, is even more clear and possibly more important to more people — the fact that there is not the slightest encouragement in these proceedings for a relief of local property taxes through higher state aids.

The idea has grown up during the last quarter of a century, and has been hammered upon with effect by the Democrats and the Republicans in the post-war years, that the localities are outgrowing their traditional revenue systems and that they have nowhere to turn for help except to the state treasury at Madison.

How the state treasury shall help the state's local government creatures has never been fully explained — only promised.

LOOKING IT OVER

There were many issues raised by the Democrats in the recent years of their rising prosperity, and many themes to the successful drive of Sen. Nelson. One of albeit not from scripture, "I may not agree with you, but I will defend to the death your right to your opinion." I can't find my copy of "Bartlett's Quotations" so it isn't an exact quote, but I came close.

Last year dogs froze to death at the city shelter; on one occasion there were witnesses present when two dogs that had been gassed and were supposedly dead and on the way to the rendering plant, revived. Is this worthy of humanity? Is this sob sister stuff?

I'd better put in a little scripture quote of my own: "A righteous man regardeth the life of his beast; but the tender mercies of the wicked are cruel." Proverbs 12:10.

And I don't think this means that we shouldn't have pork chops for dinner.

Mrs. Ora Gygi
832 E. College Ave.
Appleton

P. S. A group of us are collecting gifts for a needy local family for Christmas and I have personal knowledge that many people in attendance at the meeting are constantly working toward betterment of human welfare and community service.

them was a ceaseless indictment of local property tax levels, and an implicit promise that the Democrats would find a way to make them more bearable if they were given control at the statehouse.

But today that relief may appear a little more difficult to the governor-elect than it did in the campaign halls during the past year. Indeed, one wonders, watching the budget proceedings, if the governor-elect would have pounded the property tax relief question so hard had he known surely that he was going to be elected and called upon to make good.

The school aid budget illustrates the magnitude of the problem. Supt. George Watson has shown, in general terms, that even to maintain the present modest level of state support of local education in the aggregate — about 21 per cent — will require $16,000,000 or more in new money. Taking into account the fact that the presently higher level of subsidies authorized by the legislature in 1957 was financed in part by a state treasury surplus, and cannot be sustained by present revenues, and taking into account the probability that other state services will require more money even to account for the inflation factor, the state tax liability prospects are sombre indeed. How the new administration can make good the implied promise to go beyond present school aid levels, not to mention subsidies for local public welfare programs and other local tax burdens, is very difficult to see from the budget room perspective.

THEY HAVE POWER

Now of course there is no doubt that the new governor and the new legislature could provide local tax relief if they chose to do so. They have the power to raise as much state tax money as they see fit.

But the legislature is politically divided. There will be a watchful senate Republican majority ready to veto anything of the Democrats it doesn't like. It is as difficult for an assemblyman or a senator in Madison to impose new taxes upon his voters as it is for the alderman or trustee or supervisor at home. What is the local political value, in mill rate, of a 50 to 60 per cent boost in the state income tax?

It is these signs of trouble on the horizon that bring some chuckles to the Republicans. "I am waiting for the goods promised to be delivered," Gov. Thomson grinned to capitol reporters. To many of the GOP, licking Nov. 4 wounds, it appears pretty sure that the victorious Democrats have promised more than prudence advised.

Oil From Shale To Aid Industry

From The Dallas, Texas Morning News

In the last few years several oil firms have begun extracting oil from shale in Colorado. This industry still is in a pilot stage, but it could grow rapidly if the cost of extraction is lowered or if the cost of producing petroleum from underground pools rises further.

As Simon Klosky of Washington pointed out, Colorado has enough shale to make 400 billion gallons of oil. This reserve is valuable as a backlog. If needed, it could help to tide over American industry from underground oil to atomic fuel. But the underground oil reserves are expected to be ample for some time.

School Fire Inspection Report Filed

Housekeeping Good, Chief Says; Defects Listed

A school-by-school fire hazard inspection report to be filed Wednesday with the city council and later with the school board was detailed Monday night by Fire Chief Paul Neumann for the council's public safety committee.

Parts of the report were released earlier. Some defects were found in most schools, but Neumann reported housekeeping generally was "excellent."

The report: Columbus school: No fire escapes from second floor. Paper cartons in a basement room. Hot plate resting on wood in boiler room. One fire door not working properly.

Edison school: Fusible link in one fire door not serving purpose. One fire escape door too tight at bottom for small child to open. Switchboard on stage in auditorium obsolete and dangerous.

Franklin school: Grease dripping on an electric motor, with cardboard stored in same room. Need metal containers for print shop rags and basement waste paper.

Jackson school: Hot plate resting on wood. Basement fire extinguisher hose needs replacement.

Jefferson school: Wood stand in front of incinerator and boiler must be replaced with metal stands.

Lincoln school: Fire extinguisher needed in kitchen.

Richmond school: Metal waste paper containers needed to replace wood and paper cartons.

Washington school: Lumber and paper cartons stored in the attic.

Whispering Pines school: Hot plate resting on linoleum. Storm door and inside door on north side too tight for children to open.

One Fire Door McKinley Junior High school: No fire escapes from the second floor. Only one fire door, of those ordered, complete in basement. Roosevelt Junior High school: Light cord in basement should be replaced. Wood piled in an ash pit. Fire extinguishers needed in the print shop and kitchen. Hot plate resting on wood. Asbestos plates needed for irons in sewing room. Pilots recommended in receptacles where irons and hot plates are used.

Wilson Junior High school: Fire extinguisher needed in home economics room.

Appleton High school: Two light cords on stage need replacement. Printing shop should be ventilated to release gasoline fumes.

Morgan school: Attic littered with waste material. Two basement hot plates resting on wood. Better housekeeping needed in basement and workshop.

St. Joseph school: Fire escape doors of old school padlocked. Fire escape doors near cafeteria in basement of new school padlocked.

St. Therese school: Outside doors hooked from inside.

St. Paul school: Wiring above stage not in conduit. Waste paper cartons in basement.

Seven schools had no hazards, Neumann said. The of waste paper or rubbish under any stairway, basement or attic," said the chief. "Housekeeping has been excellent."

Neumann also reported: "Most of these hazards have been pointed out verbally to janitors and principals during our regular quarterly inspections and also have been placed on record cards held by the fire department."

All schools, Neumann added, have a fire alarm box on the street in front of the building and at least one auxiliary alarm inside, sometimes one on each floor. The only sprinkler system is on the stage at Appleton High school auditorium and the chief doubts more of these are needed.

Public Buildings Committeemen asked Neumann to furnish the mayor with a report of conditions he finds in all other public buildings.

Neumann reported all churches that will have Christmas trees during the holiday season will be inspected this week from basements to attics.

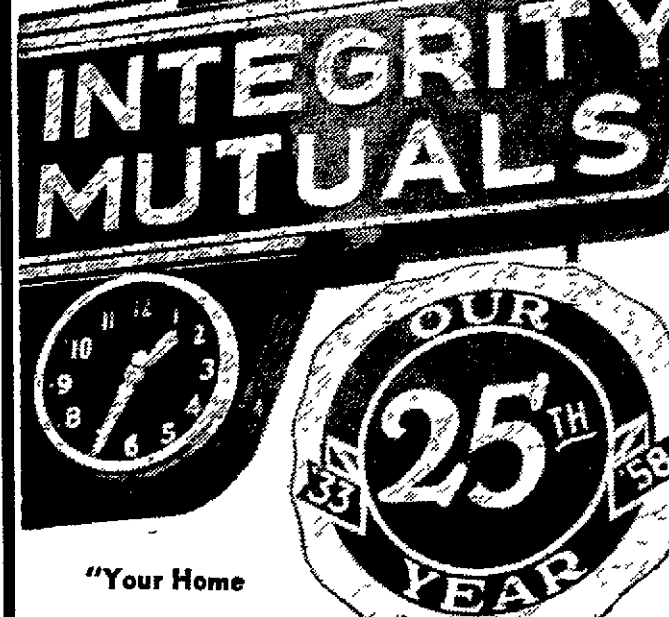

Firemen inspect schools, churches and industrial and business buildings quarterly. Homes are inspected twice a year, but only from the outside. Homes are inspected inside upon request.

Inspection activity makes the city eligible for shares of state taxes, amounting to about $8,000 a year. The money goes into the firemen's pension fund, which otherwise is supported by city property taxes.

San Francisco Hikes Bid for Political Conventions in 1960

San Francisco — San Francisco raised its bid for the 1960 national political conventions yesterday — from $250,000 to $700,000 after Mayor George Christopher said the city had a fighting chance of getting them.

The board of supervisors unanimously pledged $350,000 from city funds to be matched by private contributions, the $700,000 to be split evenly between Republicans and Democrats.

Credit Where Due Lietch cautioned to give credit where credit is due and said the city pound had been made more comfortable recently so "at least our friends are being treated humanely for five days before they're executed."

Another woman, referring to Mayor Mitchell, contended "If he really loves dogs like he says he does, he wouldn't let them be put in that nasty gas chamber."

Eliminate Post It again was asked, this time by a Neenah woman, why the post of dog officer could not be eliminated and the money the city spends for him and the pound be turned over to the Humane society.

"We're not after Weber but we feel our two groups could have a better use for the money," stated Fred Rehfeldt, Humane society president. "I think a new job could be created for Mr. Weber without too much hardship."

China Lake, Calif. — (UP) — The navy is lightening this country's method of detecting unannounced satellites.

Scientists have built a camera they say is capable of discovering and tracking satellites which might spy on the free world.

A bank of nine, they say, could keep constant vigil on the night sky.

A source close to the nation's satellite program says it is extremely doubtful a satellite could be developed capable of eluding detection by the new camera.

A portion of a satellite's skin must be given a reflective surface, he says, to let in enough sunlight to keep the instruments from freezing. "This reflective surface would certainly betray the satellite to a sensitive tracking camera," he said.

Assumption Defeats St. John by 60-48

1st Quarter Lead Gives Rapids 5 Big Advantage

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Little Chute — St. John spotted Assumption of Wisconsin Rapids a big first quarter lead and could not overcome the Royals as they went down to a 60 to 48 defeat here Monday night.

The loss was the third of the season for the Dutchmen against five victories.

Assumption jumped off to a 16 to 7 lead in the first period, hitting eight of 10 field goal tries. The hot shooting visitors kept up the pace in the second frame dropping in eight of 14 attempts from the field and adding four of six free tosses.

St. John failed to get into the scoring act after Tom Geerts hit a one hander to make it 4 to 2. The Chuters went until 2:12 remained in the quarter before Geerts bagged another jump shot. This made it 11 to 4. After Don Hermesen cut the lead to 11 to 6 the Royals went on another spree and pushed the margin to 16 to 6. Andy Ebben canned a free throw for St. John just as the quarter ended.

The Dutchmen perked up in the second quarter getting 18 points to 20 for Assumption. Eight of the markers came on free throws and two of the buckets were by junior Gary Versteegen.

Coach Bill Fitzpatrick installed the fighting spirit in the Dutchmen during the intermission and they roared back to score eight straight points and make the score 36 to 33. Assumption's Don Ellis banged in a pair to put the lead back at seven points.

Hermesen hit three points on a bucket and free throw and Geerts pumped one in to make it 48 to 38. This is as close as the Chuters managed to get as Mullenbach and Jerry Stelzer combined to push the quarter score to 48 to 38.

In the final period several bad passes halted scoring opportunities for the Chuters and the Royals capitalized on the miscues, turning two into buckets.

Mullenbach did an outstanding job for the winners under the bucket as he scored 23 points on 10 field goals and three free throws and controlled the boards.

Geerts led the Chuters with 14 while Hermesen had 11 and played his best floor game of the season.

The Irish relied on a strong final quarter to win its fourth game, downing Arnies 63 to 54. The winners led 17 to 15 at the end of the first period and at halftime held a slim 28-27 advantage. The teams continued to exchange goals in the third frame as the winners still led 45-42 going into the final quarter.

Krueger Victory

Krueger led 24-16 at the quarter, 46-24 at the half, 68 to 34 at the end of the third frame and then coasted to the win.

Lawrence Says:
Communists
Behind Church Bombings

Underground Getting More Powerful In United States

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — When the bombing of a Jewish church in Atlanta occurred several weeks ago, this correspondent suggested that the episode had the earmarks of communist underground operations. The suggestion was met with cynicism by some of those who preferred rather to indict the people of the south or to blame the occurrence in part on those persons who exercise their constitutional right in America to speak or write on the issue of integration in the public schools. There were others like the mayor of Atlanta, however, who pointed out that the bombing seemed to be part of an interstate conspiracy — it wasn't just the work of hoodlums or crackpots in any one locality. Anything interstate is big enough, of course, to be of foreign origin as well.

Now, after considerable investigation, including a visit to the south, Sen. elect Kenneth B. Keating, Republican, of New York state, points the finger of suspicion toward the communists. Here is a United Press - International dispatch from Schenectady, N. Y.:

"Sen. elect Kenneth B. Keating said here last night that there was a 'strong suspicion' the bombings of places, homes and places of school in the south may have been fomented by communists."

"Moscow made certain that the news of the Rock and the school bombings reached every corner of the globe," Keating said. "There is even a strong suspicion among many informed people that the communists themselves may be fomenting these horrible bombings."

Not Only Jewish Attacks

At first it appeared that the bombings and threats were directed solely at Jewish places of worship, but there have been numerous incidents involving both Protestant and Catholic churches and their schools. Phony threats have become numerous, and, while these could be the work of crackpots affected by suggestion, it is far more likely that the communist underground, which has agents in every state of the union, would take advantage of the opportunity to achieve headlines. Anything that portrays America as torn constantly by class feeling is grist for the communist mill.

The communists, moreover, do not and have not anti-semitic organizations on every continent. They help to finance Fascist units in Europe which are active in spreading hate literature. They have access to student bodies in many universities throughout the world, especially in Mexico and Latin America generally.

They have lately gotten stronger in Canada, where it will be recalled that a few years ago Igor Gouzenko, an attaché of the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, exposed a Canadian - American spy ring of the communists. The distribution of "hate America" literature has recently increased in Canada.

Fascist units, secretly financed, are a favorite instrument of the communist apparatus because, on the surface, they seem far from sympathetic with communism. Keating, in a television interview on Sunday, indicated that some Fascist organizations in America may be implicated in and certainly are exploiting the bombings.

Communist Propaganda

When the tragedy in Arkansas occurred last year, the communists promptly exploited it on the propaganda waves. As federal troops moved into Little Rock, the communists boasted over their radio stations throughout the world that the United States couldn't keep the peace by normal means and had to resort to military force.

While there are doubtless amateurs in the bombing game, the techniques are usually handled by professionals. The communists have many experienced units engaged in bombing enterprises inside middle eastern countries, and their activities emerge wherever the communist and anti-communist forces are lined up in bitter hostility to one another. More than a billion dollars are spent annually by the Kremlin in subversive activities in at least 72 countries of the world.

Urge Federal Laws

Keating is right in urging that these bombings or threats of bombing inside the United States be covered by federal criminal laws. In a sense, they are usually interstate in their character anyway, but, if the federal law specified such crimes, it would enable the FBI to move in more rapidly and to work more closely with local authorities in warding off such happenings.

The problems growing out of the presence of a powerful communist underground inside America will never be solved till many who are influential in the press and in the pulpit stop pooh-poohing it as non-existent. Also, if the fifth amendment were amended so that, during a "cold war," Americans could be required to tell of their communist associations, the FBI would be helped immeasurably. It is not enough for witnesses merely to deny personal complicity. If they would wholeheartedly assist the authorities, it would be of incalculable aid in running down the interstate conspiracies and their masterminds operating here or in neighboring countries through funds furnished by the Moscow government.

Charges U. S. Bases in Japan Threat to Reds

London — Pravda Monday charged that American military bases equipped with atomic weapons in Japan are a direct threat to the Soviet Union and other countries.

The editorial in the Soviet communist party paper, broadcast by Moscow radio, was another blast in the communist propaganda campaign against the security treaty between the United States and Japan.

The two governments have been holding talks intermittently on a revision of the 1951 treaty. U.S. troops in Japan are not equipped with atomic weapons, and Japanese officials have said repeatedly they would not agree to such arms being based in Japan.

Pittsburgh Fight Underway on Pigeons

Pittsburgh — Are racing pigeons essential as army reservists subject to immediate recall or are they dirty birds and undesirable in a city?

The Pittsburgh chapter of the American Racing Pigeon union says racing pigeons are essential members of a community, especially since the army has disbanded its own pigeon corps.

Judge Benjamin Lencher has upheld municipal rulings that the birds are pests and undesirable. His ruling requires a Pittsburgh man to get rid of his flock of racing pigeons by Dec. 31.

The pigeon union says it will ask Pennsylvania superior court to settle the question.

Morse Fires Man 'Disloyal' To Friendship

Caretaker Says He Angered Senator By Comment on Ike

Eugene, Ore. — (U — Because he was a Republican and liked Ike, D. F. Pickert said, he was fired as a part-time caretaker by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore).

"It was just the idea I was a Republican that was too strong for him," said the 66-year-old Pickert, who had worked part-time at Morse's farm near here 25 years. He was paid $1 an hour.

Morse said in Washington, D.C., that he did not dispense with Pickert's services because the caretaker is a Republican "but because he had not been loyal to my friendship."

Pickert said at his home here that last October, after Morse had criticized President Eisenhower in a speech, he remarked to Morse that "Eisenhower has forgot more about war than the common man will ever know."

"I never saw a man get so mad," Pickert said. The discharge, he said, followed.

Telegram to Newspaper
"I campaigned for him in 1944 and 1950, but in 1956 I was neither for him, or against him. He must have thought I was against him since I wasn't for him," Pickert said.

After Pickert made the comments yesterday, the Eugene Register Guard said it received a telegram from Morse criticizing the newspaper for running a story about the discharge.

Morse's criticism was completely unfounded, the newspaper said, because up until then it had never run such a story.

In its Monday afternoon editions, the newspaper printed the telegram on its front page. It said:

"I am amused by your story that I discharged an employee because he supported President Eisenhower. If you had quoted the entire letter that I wrote that employee instead of excerpting out of context, you would have been journalistically fair.

"I did not dispense with my employee's services because he was a Republican, as I pointed out in my letter to him. I dispensed with his services because he had not been loyal to my friendship."

After the discharge, Pickert said, he received a letter from Morse which said:

"I'm very sorry it has become necessary to end our working relationship. However, I have found from experience that when one has such strong differences with my political views which you expressed to others, loyalty and friendship is sacrificed."

Philip Bertetta, 10, scratches his head, left, as he tries to figure out how to spend $1,000 all in a single day. The cash was first prize in a nationwide contest he had entered and was all his if he could spend it all in one day. At right, after a whirlwind gift-buying spree, in which he succeeded in using up every cent of the money, he joins brother, Jerry, 7, and sister, Gail, 13, in sampling huge array of new toys. Philip is the son of Dr. and Mrs. George Bertetta, Burlingame, Calif.

Wins $1,000 in Contest

Boy Remembers Relatives, Church, Poor Children on Spending Spree

Burlingame, Calif. — (U — You're a 10-year-old boy and a stranger catches you on your front porch, and hands you $1,000 you've won in a nationwide contest to name a rocket ship. But you've got to spend it all that day, he says.

What would you do? Philip Bertetta was the calmest member in his family when this happened to him.

"Gosh," he said. "I thought I'd lost."

His father, Dr. George Bertetta, a veterinarian, had to leave for his pet hospital. So Phil and his mother and assorted hangers-on from press, radio and television, started out.

First to Bank
First to the bank, where Andrew McConnell, manager of the American Trust company here, took the banker's view.

"Phil," he said, "you'd better take care of your income tax first."

"What's income tax," asked the boy.

At the internal revenue service he parted with $62.50. Uncle Sam's bite.

For most of the day he led the safari through the shopping districts of the San Francisco peninsula, picking out what he wanted and brushing aside suggestions.

First choice was a gasoline powered model airplane, and with this under his arm he looked over the electric trains and chose a small new model complete with track, station and all equipment.

"Take a bigger one," someone said. "You can afford it."

"This is the one I want," he stated, moving on.

Toy Radio
He next acquired a toy radio (space model), a wind-up toy racer, a sports car instrument panel, a space helmet and some model plane and car kits.

"You've spent only a hundred dollars, Phil," warned a company representative. "You have to go faster than this."

He did. He asked to be driven to his church where he gave the pastor $50. "For the poor children," he said.

At a department store he bought two television sets, one for his parents, and another for his grandmother who had encouraged him to enter the contest in the first place three months back.

He still had $265 left.

In a bicycle shop he bought a shining new steed when his mother pointed out his old bike was getting too small for him and could be passed on to his 7-year-old brother, Jerry.

Next he bought a big doll. "What's that for?" he was asked.

"A little girl in the hospital," Phil replied.

He bought some more model airplane kits, a record player and a toy cannon.

At home he wrote out two more checks. One to big sister Gail, 13, for $25, and one for Jerry for $20.

"I'm giving you my old train," he told Jerry, "and that ought to be worth $5, so I'm just giving you $20 in money."

Then he cleaned out the $1,000 with a check for a $100 savings bond, and some donations. One went to his mother to buy presents for the rest of the family, another for presents for his class at school.

said the Soviet ultimatum must first be flatly turned down.

Dulles recalled that at the 1955 summit conference in Geneva the Russians agreed that the four powers were responsible for the reunification of Germany.

"It would be grotesque to suggest that a new agreement could be erected on the wreckage of the old," he said in reference to Soviet threats to withdraw from their part of the Berlin agreement.

Generous to Russia
Dulles appeared before the NATO ministers with a prepared map showing the demarcation line between east and west in Germany. He said in drawing this line the west had been generous to Russia after World War II.

"The west withdrew several thousand square kilometers and in return received a small enclave in Berlin," he said.

Khrushchev, in demanding the modification of the status of West Berlin, "made no suggestions to modify any other parts of the bargain," Dulles added.

Dulles said if the west permitted Khrushchev's Berlin thrust "to meet with any successes, this small beginning would probably end in disaster for all Europe."

He said the Berlin crisis was similar to communist probing elsewhere in the free world.

The ministers also agreed to advise the Russians that the big western powers are ready to negotiate at a high level for a general settlement of the problems of Europe.

These would include reunification of Germany with Berlin as its capital, European security measures and dis-ed to enter the home of the Negro family.

Constable Tommy Coleman said the children's mother, Mrs. Ruby Lee Mack, said she left the children alone while she went for firewood.

Mad Whirl of Relatives Too Much for Fed-Up Housewife

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Sometimes you give excellent advice. Other times you sound like a knuckle-head. The latest example of knuckle-headism was your advice to "Dad It". You told her to leave her relatives alone. "If you can't get along with them" (quoth the mighty Landers) "then learn to get along without them."

Believe me, Ann, I'd like nothing better than to leave my relatives alone. But how can I when they won't leave me alone?

I haven't been inside my brother's home for three years. Yet he and his wife and their three kids come over almost every Sunday (at dinner time). My mother-in-law is a regular boarder — three times a week, rain or shine. She lives two blocks away and I swear she can smell a roast from that distance. She hasn't had me for a meal in five years — says her stove is broken.

I have two nieces whose mother is too sick (spelled l-a-z-y) to fix them lunch. The school is three blocks from me so I have them five days a week.

No one ever says hello, goodbye, thank you, or drop dead. I get no help with the dishes. They never bring so much as a wiener. Sometimes I think the only solution is to shoot all relatives. What do you say to that? — Up To Here

Dear U.T.H.: I say put on your bullet-proof vest — you are a relative to them. If you permit these freeloaders to pile in on you day after day, week after week, year after year — without so much as a hello or a goodbye or a drop dead — then it's you who is a knuckle-head, not me.

People who let themselves get kicked around and abused, then cry buckets because people take advantage of them, get no sympathy from me. If you're "Up To Here," don't just lie there... say something.

DEAR ANN: I would like to comment on your reply to Little — the woman who complained because her husband didn't remember her birthday or anniversary. How right you were, Ann, when you told her to quit moaning, that such things aren't really important. And how courageous of you to take this stand. Gift-giving has become a sacred cow. To suggest that it's not really important, in this day of ultra-commercialism, is suicide.

My husband never forgot a single birthday, anniversary or holiday. And there were plenty of flowers and boxes of candy in between. I found out after 18 years of marriage that he had women everywhere. His gifts were only gimmicks to cover a guilty conscience. The best gift a husband can give his wife — plain old loyalty. I never had. And my name is legion. — Gift "Rapped"

Holiday Traveler Will Find Minding P's and Q's Helpful

AP Newsfeatures
Comes the time for yuletide visits — days away from home, perhaps visiting classmates or a beau's family. Travel brings with it obligations and involves courtesies, however, and some times we thoughtlessly act in-different to them.

There is, for instance, consideration for the hostess: You should arrive and depart on trains that are suggested. Don't say: "I think I'll take a later train" or "I'd just as soon go home tomorrow." If she suggests it, fine. But don't be the one to bring it up.

Travel Light
If you are visiting a beau's mother for the first time, give her a little gift when you arrive — candy or a small bouquet of flowers may help break the ice.

It's a good idea not to take more luggage with you than you need, giving the impression that you will stay for the winter. Then too, there may not be room in the car for all your luggage to the embarrassment of the hostess. You'll make the best impression with the minimum of luggage, providing you have the essentials. Don't just throw things in willy-nilly, "just in case."

Plan Carefully
Plan everything carefully. Take the smallest bag you can without crushing your clothes. If it's a long visit the most practical bag is the 44-inch all-purpose to keep dresses wrinkle-free and hold your other needs. If an additional bag is needed add a train case or hat box.

Train cases will hold accessories and makeup for an overnight trip. Or use the 17-inch hat box for that purpose.

Handy Swag Bag
The swag bag is another popular travel bag these days. It's the one fashion models use to carry accessories. It has a large pocket in the center, a side zipper, handy for last minute packables, and a zipper on top that opens the main compartment.

These resemble tote bags, only they are bigger and may be used for overnight or weekend trips. Some of them are so big they could serve as sleeping bags, but they do get away from that "I'm going to stay forever" look.

Newer luggage is lightweight resembling vinyl plastic or fiberglass.

Be Courteous
When you arrive at your destination, don't put luggage on the bedspread. If a luggage rack is not supplied, use a chair.

Keep track of your clothes, and don't drape laundry in the family bathroom. Ask where you may hang hosiery or lingerie, if you must, but it is better to have clean things to last for your stay, if possible.

In Good Taste
Late Staying Guest Can Be a Problem

Dear Mrs. Post: How can a visitor be hurried when she stays past our meal time? I'm referring to the usual situation of only one chop apiece for the family and no extras of anything. Moreover, I'm not sure that the visitor would want to stay even if invited. But the problem is how to get her to go!

Answer: You might say frankly, "I'm sorry but I have to begin getting dinner ready, will you come into the kitchen with me?" The chances are certainly in favor of her saying she didn't know it was so late and taking her leave. If, on the other hand, she goes into the kitchen with you and does not leave fairly soon, you could say, "I am sorry I can't ask you to stay tonight but you see we have a very meager dinner."

Stationery Printing
Dear Mrs. Post: I am a young unmarried woman in the early thirties. I would like to order some stationery for general use but am not sure how it should be marked. Would it be proper to have my name printed in full across the top of the paper? If not, will you please tell me how it should correctly be marked?

Answer: For general use, Miss Mary Anne Smith with your full address beneath would be entirely proper. But for invitations, acceptances and regrets and other social notes, having your paper marked M.A.S. would be in best taste. Or, if you prefer, it would be in equally good taste to use just your street address, without the city.

Church Choir to Present Cantata
Choir of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church will present the cantata "Love Transcending" at 10:15 Sunday at the church. Miss Freda Koppin is director and organist.

Soloists will be the Mmes. Vernon Zimmerman, John Kippenhan, Robert Herrmann, Miss Iris Kippenhan, plain old loyalty, I never had. And my name is legion. — Gift "Rapped"

Wedding Bell Boom

Teen Marriages Now Triple Pre-War Rate in England

London—Teen-age wedding bells are booming in Britain. There are now three times as many teen-age weddings as before World War II. Joan Eggett, 15, lives in southeast London. Eighteen months ago she met truck driver Derek Wallen at a religious meeting.

A year ago, while Joan was still at school, they got engaged. They will marry Saturday—three days after Joan's 16th birthday. Derek is 20.

The arrival here recently of Mrs. Barbara Scruggs, 14-year-old wife of an American sailor, caused less furore than it would have a few years ago.

In England no one under 16 may marry. Between 16 and 21, both parents must approve. If they refuse permission, the youngsters can try to persuade a judge that they should be allowed to wed.

Britain's youngest bride today is Nellie Mills (Nee Flavell). She married John Mills, 18, on her 16th birthday last month. Said Nellie's mother: "I certainly don't think she's young."

Experts Comment
What do the experts think about these teen-age marriages?

Experts Comment
Joseph Brayshaw of the National Marriage Guidance Council said:

"There are three reasons for younger marriages—full employment, family employment, family planning and installment buying. As long as the standard of living remains high, people will marry young."

James Holiday, superintendent registrar at London's

Caxton hall, where there are 2,000 weddings a year, said: "The only thing I have against very young marriages is that, invariably, the couple haven't sufficient financial backing to start a home of their own."

The Rev. P. W. Seymour, vicar of a church in southeast London for 33 years said:

"I don't think one can generalize on the right age for marriage. But I do think they should wait until they have a home and are capable of looking after each other."

Cold Keeps Sen. Wiley From Special Meeting

Washington—A cold prevented Sen. Alexander Wiley from attending Monday's meeting of Republican colleagues who seek to win control of the senate's GOP leadership.

Wilson C. Hefner, a Wiley aide, said the senator developed the cold Saturday but was feeling much better.

"I talked to the senator earlier this evening," Hefner said, "and I expect he will be in his office Tuesday."

Mrs. Gregory Peck, Former Reporter, Busy as Homemaker

BY DOROTHY ROE

AP Newsfeatures

Hollywood—Sometimes it pays to be a girl reporter, says Veronique Peck, who met her famous husband Gregory, while interviewing him for a Paris newspaper.

"It was the longest interview on record," says the dynamic and strictly French Veronique, "Now I have Gregory and two beautiful babies, and I do not worry about headline hunting any more."

"I do not worry about the women who write mash notes to my husband either, or even about the beautiful stars to whom he makes love on the screen. Sometimes I give him pointers to improve his technique. I think he appreciates this."

One look at Veronique explains why she does not worry about the blandishments of other women. In the quiet, comfortable Peck home in Brentwood, surrounded by French Normandy antiques, the young Mrs. Peck is beautiful even when she is attired in slacks and shirt, with her short blonde hair as tousled as a little boy's.

Though she looks like a femme fatale, Veronique has the philosophy of a good French wife.

"I like to make a good home, a solid home," says this glamorous housewife. "Here we have great privacy, for Hollywood has become the quietest town in the world. People stay at home."

Veronique and Peck were married in 1955 after Peck's divorce from his first wife. The young bride inherited a ready-made family—Gregory's three sons by the first marriage: Jonathan, 14, Stephen 12, and Carey Paul, 10.

The family group now has been increased by two: Anthony, 2, and Cecilia, 6 months old.

The three older boys are devoted to their stepmother, and she lavishes love, advice and French lessons on them. With

A pretty Parisian paper doll when she met a famous and handsome actor a few years ago, she threw over her newspaper career without a qualm to settle down to Hollywood domesticity.

Here is a profile of Mrs. Gregory Peck, second in an eight-part series on top movie stars wives.

her own two babies, she behaves like a modern and strictly streamlined mother, complete with coos and kisses and frequent remarks such as:

"Did you ever see such a sweet and good baby? Or one so beautiful?"

In January the Peck family—mom, pop, the two babies, a secretary, a French nursemaid and a French cook—will emplane for Australia, where Peck will co-star with Ava Gardner and Fred Astaire in a movie version of the best-selling novel, "On the Beach."

They will be on location in Melbourne for at least four months—and Veronique intends to do it in comfort.

Veronique designs her own clothes and has them executed by her own dressmaker, but she has no aspirations to become a professional designer. She says:

Fulltime Job
"I have the greatest career any woman could ever want—that of a wife and mother. I believe this is a fulltime job worthy of the best talents a woman has."

"When my husband has to make love to the most glamorous actresses in the world to earn a living, I think he deserves a quiet, restful haven when he comes home. For this is hard work, you know—playing the great lover."

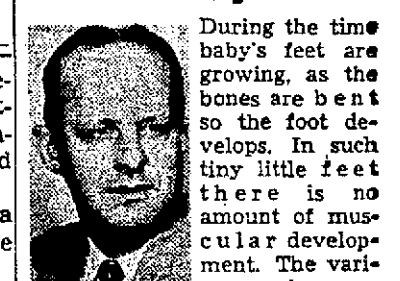

"When he is playing those love scenes I look at them professionally, just as he does, and I give him my opinion on scenes and scripts. Often I go on the set and almost always I look at the rushes."

"When we are on tour, and women swoon over my Gregory, I do not feel jealous. Instead I am proud. I would not want to be married to a man nobody else wanted. Besides, I do not think I have to worry, for I have given Gregory something nobody else has. I have given him little Cecilia—the first girl in seven generations of Pecks."

EARL D. MILLER
Heckert Shoe Co.
119 E. College Ave.

During the time baby's feet are growing, as the bones are bent so the foot develops. In such tiny little feet there is no amount of muscular development. The various arches are held up in proper position by means of fatty pads. That is why the foot of the new-born baby usually appears to be perfectly flat, and continues to look that way for about a year. As the child begins to crawl and stand, the leg muscles are developed. Nature absorbs the fatty pads and the foot appears to show its arches.

At Heckert Shoe Co., in our exclusive "children's shoe department" with our trained, qualified personnel, you can expect us to do our very best to provide your children with the best possible fit as well as the best possible shoes so as to justify your confidence in us.

Christmas Series Tells Story of Magi's Journey

One of the most appealing chapters of the eternal story of Christmas is the odyssey of the "Wise Men from the East," who followed the light of a star to find and worship the Child of Bethlehem. Despite its powerful elements of drama and mystery, most descriptions of the Magi and their trip are woefully brief and lacking in detail. The Gospels preserved only a short description of the visit of the strangers from the Orient; the human detail of that momentous pilgrimage has been in large measure lost in antiquity.

George Cornell, religion writer for The Associated Press and author of last year's memorable "Legacy of Luke" series, set out to fill in this but the conjectures are based on the actual situation, as best it can be determined from available records. "Some of the general propositions advanced also are surmises without any positive verifications," Cornell explains. "But again, they are derived from the known facts and circumstances, and are reasoned conclusions from the evidence available. "After all, history itself consists not just of facts, but of inferences drawn from the facts. Without the inferences, history would be barren, indeed."

Traditions All sorts of traditions about the Magi were carried on by word of mouth through early Christian times, and set down by the church fathers. This process continued into the Middle Ages, with the gradual building up of legends, imaginative tales and perhaps some facts.

In considering these sources, Cornell weighed them against the historical and Gospel data, keeping whatever survived the test. He was surprised to find that much of the general consensus of these legends fits in with the likely possibilities.

"Rationalists some time have attacked the Magi story as pure myth," Cornell says. "Except for the supernatural attributes given the star, however, it squares fully with the personalities, conditions and attitudes of those reported involved. And I think anybody, even in the space age, will admit there still are lots of unknowns so far as the stars are concerned."

Rare Woodcuts

Principal illustrations for the stories are rare woodcuts of the 15th century. The pictures were contained in books published in Germany in 1478 and 1484.

One of them, John of Hildeheim's "Historia Trium Regum" (1484) related the story of the Three Kings. The other, "Auslegung des Lebens Jesu Christi" is a life of Christ published at Ulm in 1470.

The reproductions used in the series were made from original copies of these volumes which are preserved at the Pierpont Morgan Library and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York city.

School Social

Members of the St. Matthew Evangelical Lutheran association of parents and teachers are planning a social hour when they meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the church sub-basement.

DORCAS

"Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which is by interpretation called Dorcas..."

—Acts 9:36

Scripture introduces us to Dorcas when she is a grown woman, "full of good works and almsdeeds which she did."

Messengers have just brought the Apostle Peter word that she has died. Peter hurries from Lydda to her home. There he finds her body laid out in an upper chamber, while all about stood the widows and poor people Dorcas has helped, "weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made while she was with them."

Before Peter restores her to life, let us turn back the years in the life of this seamstress for the poor, whose still hands have so many times stitched baby clothes for orphans, and burial shrouds for the poor.

We see her as a little girl in the little sea-port town thirty-two miles northwest of Jerusalem. From her window she occasionally looks out over the flattened domes of the houses between her and the harbor. In the distant harbor, various kinds of ships lie at anchor in the sandy roadstead.

Already, her little hands are busy with the needle, as her mother teaches her to sew. She is happy to be helping with the work and eager to learn all the intricate stitches her mother knows.

But from time to time, her thoughts wander. She is thinking of a conversation she overheard between two men who came from Jerusalem to visit her family several days before.

"They had talked excitedly of a man who, they said, had been unjustly condemned to death and crucified, but who had returned to life after three days."

"Is it possible to rise from the dead as they say the prophet Jesus did?" she asks her mother earnestly.

"So He taught," her mother replied. "If you truly believe."

Dorcas believed. Years later in the upper chamber at Joppa she heard the voice telling her, "Tabitha, arise." And she opened her eyes.

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

That lovely look of luxury for a bedroom—Virginia Conner Dick provides excellent clues to how to create it in this close-up of a bedroom she designed. First of all, she points out the importance of the pattern, which spreads farther in the reflections in the anemphasizing beautiful furniture. Dark wood makes sure that the headboards and the night table stand out clearly against the light background and foreground, to show their subtle shapings and fine detail.

Then, her room design advises, use a single pale color or white everywhere, touched only by a single, light and sparing pattern. This gives a serenely spacious and unified look to the room. The match-stick drapery is in the pale color. The fabric drapery, headboard panels and bedspreads are all in the same pattern, which spreads farther in the reflections in the anemphasizing beautiful furniture. The only contrast, sparks that the headboards and the night table stand out clearly against the light background and foreground, to show their subtle shapings and fine detail.

Ask Full Benefits to Widows of State Workers Killed on Job

Madison —(AP)—The legislative council recommended Monday that the 1959 legislature pass a bill which would permit the state to pay full compensation to widows of employees killed on the job.

The measure would appropriate $10,000 for the next biennium for this purpose. The council recommends legislation to the upcoming session.

Reuben G. Knutson, chairman of the industrial commission, told the council that in the last 12 years an average of three state employees a year were killed on the job. He said there wasn't enough money in the special children's benefit fund to pay widows with dependents.

Under the law, each employer including the state, pays $11,000 into the children's fund upon the death of any employee killed on the job. The maximum to which a widow with dependents now is entitled to, however, is $14,000, and the fund has been depleted both for private employers and the state.

The proposed law would require payment of an additional $2,500 into the fund upon the death of an employee where dependents are left, so that widows could receive full benefits. At present insurance companies are providing the funds to make full payment and must be reimbursed.

Thinks GOP Will Regain Its Power

Claude Jasper Says Party Certain To Win Over Independent Voters

Madison — Claude Jasper, chairman of the state Republican organization, said Monday that leaders of his party believe the independent voters will cast ballots for Republicans again if they become well informed about all the issues.

New Cardinals Preparing for Next Ceremony

Vatican City — The new cardinals of the Roman Catholic church spent a quiet day today, preparing for the ceremonies tomorrow and Thursday at which they will receive the symbols of their new rank.

The 21 new princes of the church in Rome—two are still at their posts abroad—were receiving friends and dignitaries congratulating them on their elevation by Pope John XXIII yesterday.

Some were completing their wardrobes for the two consistory still to come. Others rested from the excitement of the notification ceremonies yesterday.

The colorful program of medieval splendor resumes tomorrow with a semi-public consistory at the Vatican. Then Pope John will present them with their zucchetto and biretta, the headgear they most commonly wear, and their cardinal's capes. All will be of the scarlet color symbolic of their rank.

The zucchetto is a skull cap which evolved in the middle ages from a tight fitting cap, with ear flaps, designed for warmth. The biretta, a square-shaped, close-fitting hat with three ridges or peaks, apparently was developed from the same ancient and distinctive headgear that was the ancestor of the college mortar board.

An Oil Portrait of former Gov. Walter Kohler, Jr., was accepted by the state Monday and placed with those of his predecessors in the executive office. Kohler is shown with the portrait. In a brief talk Kohler, who served three terms from 1950 to 1956, said he was grateful for support given him by all state employees and the Republican party.

Senate Jobs By Seniority, Pair Demands

LaFave, Lorge Not Happy With Rulings Of '57 GOP Leaders

Madison — Two northeastern Wisconsin state senators Monday failed to persuade their Republican state senate colleagues to change the political fashions in organizing the upper house of the state legislature.

Sens. Reuben LaFave, Oconto, and Gerald Lorge, Bear Creek, entered the Republican state senate organization caucus with a demand that committee assignments be distributed according to seniority.

They made it clear they were unhappy with the decisions of their Republican leaders in the 1957 legislature, in which they also served.

Whether they won their point was debatable, although their motion was carried after an amendment.

According to other senators who attended the closed meeting, the proposal was amended to declare in favor of assignment by seniority and ability.

That means, according to opinion here, that the previous practices in senate organization will be continued. Senate committee seats will be parceled out by the committee on committees, according to the view of the 3-member group of leaders on the talents and experience of the 33 senators.

It was not clear why Lorge and LaFave introduced their proposal. It was taken as a sign of potential rebellion by the two against the Republican majority command which evidently intends to remain in control of the senate while the Democrats hold the house and the executive department.

LaFave and Lorge are comparative juniors in the senate. Men with more seniority have also been denied committee chairmanships. LaFave is thought to be interested in the senate conservation committee chairmanship, but it is doubtful that he can win it in view of his Monday declarations. He will compete with Sen. Clifford Krueger, Merrill, who was the chairman of that committee two years ago. Lorge two years ago was relegated to a relatively minor spot on the senate education committee.

ericks was deliberate and planned. The Republicans want to be sure that their 20 to 12 majority in the upper house will hold—to veto Democratic administration legislation if necessary.

To put Dempsey on the strategic and controlling committee, Sen. Frank Panzer of Dodge county stepped down. Panzer will retain his position as president of the senate.

Other committee members are Sen. Jess Miller of Richland center, the most important stalwart GOP leader of the senate, and Sen. W. W. Clark of Wood county, both reelected.

Committee Charges Implicit in the new organization arrangements is some change in the standing committee line-up of the upper house.

Although nothing was said about it officially, several of the mavericks will be given rank they have clamored for without avail.

Sen. Allen J. Busby of West Allis probably will become chairman of the senate judiciary committee, an important post.

Sen. J. Erle Leverich, of Sparta, is in line for the chairmanship of the committee on agriculture, a politically desirable assignment.

It appeared doubtful, how-

Attends Most of State's Biennial Appropriation Talks

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Philleo Nash of Wisconsin Rapids, who will be the No. 2 man on the new Democratic team that will take over the state government next month, is learning his new job from "the bottom up."

The Wood county cranberry grower and veteran Democratic politician missed only a few hours of the hundreds of hours of testimony during the last two weeks during biennial appropriation hearings held by Gov.-elect Gaylord Nelson.

Picks Up Gavel

He has also been brushing up in spare time on the parliamentary complexities that will face him when he picks up the gavel on Jan. 5 and becomes the presiding officer of the state senate. He has had private consultations ever, that the fourth member of the maverick quartet, Sen. W. A. Draheim of Neenah, would be satisfied.

Draheim had been thought to be interested in the chairmanship of the crucial committee on finance—in a year when the Democratic administration is troubled about money matters above all others—but it seemed that Sen. A. A. Laun, the 1957 chairman, would get the nod again.

Draheim did not attend the caucus.

As expected, Sen. Robert Travis of Platteville was re-named Republican majority leader, or floor quarterback.

Sen. William Trinke of Lake Geneva, his rival two years ago, did not ask for the job. Lawrence Larsen, of Racine, chief clerk, and Harold Damon, Wausau, senate sergeant, also will be reelected.

Democratic senators two weeks ago published a demand for better representation on senate committees.

Republicans did not decide the question at their session, but the impression prevailed that the Democrats will be able to command senate committee seats in proportion to their one-third membership of the upper house. Their share of the pie will depend, it was indicated, on the treatment of Republican majority members in the assembly.

with Lawrence Larsen, Racine, who will again be named chief clerk of the upper house by the Republican majority in that body. Larsen, through long experience on the clerk's rostrum, is one of the legislature's most skilled parliamentarians.

Nash apparently recognizes the old adage in statehouse affairs—that the best short course of instruction in the intricacies of the state's many functions is attendance at budget hearings.

In Detail

The functions of state agencies are there laid out in detail for those who are interested.

The lieutenant governor's unusual interest in the proceedings may suggest, according to capitol speculation, a closer liaison between the new governor and the new lieutenant governor than has been customary in past regimes.

Nash will have no direct or indirect responsibility for state financial policy. It is the responsibility of the governor to propose the budget, and the legislature to enact it into law.

Building Site Hassle Grows

Dispute Proposed Location in Western Wisconsin

Madison — The hassle over a site for a new state office building in western Wisconsin continued Monday.

Ralph Culbertson, the state's chief engineer, testified that the state building commission had not considered buying a $50,000 office building site in La Crosse prior to Nov. 21 when the purchase was authorized.

Culbertson was examined adversely before Commissioner Pat P. Biart of circuit court for Dane county. Culbertson said he recommended the purchase of the La Crosse site because it was the best known to be available.

The examination was conducted by counsel for Allan Roberts of Sparta, who is trying to block the sale of the site to the state. The 10 acres of land is owned by the Roman Catholic diocese of La Crosse. Culbertson said it is one of 20 or 30 possible sites in La Crosse or immediately adjacent to it.

Roberts is secretary of a Sparta industrial development organization. He claims the city of Sparta offered the state a free site for the building. His request for a temporary injunction to stop the commission from buying the land was denied in circuit court on the grounds that no

Nurse Sought In Mystery In California

Santa Barbara, Calif.—

Authorities in two countries are hunting a pretty nurse they say disappeared after her mother-in-law impregnated her and had her marriage annulled.

The mother-in-law Mrs. Eliz a beth

Mrs. Duncan Duncan, 54, was arraigned yesterday on four felony counts involving the staged annulment.

Two men have been jailed here in connection with the bizarre case — one on suspicion of kidnapping — but police won't say why.

Authorities in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties pieced together this chronology:

On June 24 — over the mother's objections — Olga Kupczyk, 30, who came here a year ago from Vancouver, British Columbia, and Frank Duncan, 29, a prominent Santa Barbara attorney were married.

Annulment Granted

On Aug. 7 Ventura superior court granted an annulment of the marriage to a couple who said they were Olga and Frank and testified that the marriage had never been consummated. (Police say the couple, in reality, was Elizabeth Duncan and an unidentified man.)

On Nov. 17 Olga was reported missing.

She had separated from Duncan and was living in an apartment. Neighbors found the apartment door wide open, all lights on and all her clothing and luggage still there. The neighbors said she was pregnant.

Saturday authorities arrested Mrs. Duncan on suspicion of bribery, forgery, perjury and falsification of documents.

When she was arraigned yesterday her son represented her, unsuccessfully pleading for a reduction in her $50,000 bail.

The two men under arrest in Santa Barbara are Augustine Baldanado, 25, booked on suspicion of kidnapping, and Luis Moya, 22, charged with parole violation. The police would not disclose their link to the case.

formal complaint had been filed. Counsel for Roberts plans to file a complaint at the conclusion of the present hearing.

Blast Rips Barge in Two, No Deaths

Pasco, Wash. — A violent explosion ripped a barge in two early today shortly after the vessel had been pumped dry of 200,000 gallons of gasoline at this Columbia river port.

Police reported no deaths. The only man aboard was injured.

Walter Pirtle, 29, Kennewick, Wash., had just turned off the gasoline pumps when the blast occurred. Badly burned, he walked off the vessel as flames shot 200 feet into the air. Pirtle reached the safety of the dock and collapsed. Hospital attendants said he was in fair condition.

"It's amazing that Walt came out of this alive," said Dave Ingersoll of the Inland Navigation Co., which operated the barge. "The explosion was so tremendous that it shook houses here and across the river in Kennewick," he said.

Fire fighters from both Pasco and Kennewick quickly brought the fire under control before it could reach nearby fuel storage tanks.

The barge was demolished and sank. Cause of the explosion was not known.

Save Preparation Time
By Serving Casseroles

Neenah — Precious minutes can be saved by the homemaker during the busy holiday season with quick and easy casseroles as the main dish for noon lunches or the evening meal.

Baked chop suey is made with one pound ground beef, two tablespoons fat, two medium chopped onions, one cup finely chopped celery, one can condensed cream of chicken soup, one can condensed cream of mushroom soup, one and one-half cups warm water, one-half cup uncooked minute rice, one-fourth cup soy sauce and salt and pepper to taste.

Brown beef in hot fat until crumbly. Add remaining ingredients, rinsing the cans of soup with the one and one-half cups of water. Bake at 350 degrees in a two-quart casserole dish for one hour. Cover with chow mein noodles. Bake 15 minutes more. The casserole dish may be prepared in advance and refrigerated.

Swiss Steak
Swiss steak with rice requires one pound of one-inch thick round steak, one teaspoon salt, one clove garlic, three tablespoons shortening, three medium sliced onions, one bay leaf, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-fourth cup flour, one and one-half cups water, one cup tomato juice and one-half cup regular or converted rice.

Rub meat with salt, pepper and cut side of garlic clove.

Dust one side of meat with half of the flour, pounding the flour into the meat. Turn and repeat. Brown onions slightly and then brown meat. Cut the meat into serving size portions and transfer to a baking dish, topping with onions and adding water and bay leaf. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

Wash rice and sprinkle around meat. Pour tomato juice over mixture. Cover and continue baking for one hour. The recipe makes four servings.

OSC Students Vote For 'Ugliest Man'

Oshkosh — Students at Oshkosh State college are voting through Wednesday to choose the winner in the "Ugly Man" contest sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national Boy Scout service fraternity. The 10 finalists are Raymond Adam, Randolph; Donald Brey, Green Bay; Thomas Brown, Oshkosh; Elmer Hansen, Wautoma; John Huhn, Fond du Lac; Bryan Jenner, Appleton; Terry Ostermeier, New London; Leonard Tessen, Weyauwega; Robert Woelfel, Chilton, and Larry Witt, Milwaukee.

The finalists were chosen from 26 candidates who entered the primaries. Each student may vote for his favorite candidate as many times as he wishes, but each vote costs one cent. All proceeds will be donated to Oshkosh charities.

Perry Welch is chairman of the contest and the winner will be announced Thursday evening during the half-time at the Oshkosh - Whitewater State college basketball game. The winner will receive a pin and trophy and there will be an all-college dance climaxing the competition Thursday evening in the college lounge.

Saddle Soap, Best Cleanser For Leather

Neenah — Saddle soap is the best cleanser to use on leather upholstery. Apply with a dampened sponge or cloth and rinse off with a cloth wrung out of clean warm water. Then dry the surface and polish with a soft cloth.

When purchasing a can opener, choose one which can be used for more than one kind of container. You will need an opener for punching cans, de-capping bottles and opening rectangular cans as well as round ones.

For best results, wash wool fabrics before they are too soiled. Handle wet wool gently, don't wring or rub and move as little as possible. Use lukewarm water that has been softened with neutral soap or synthetic detergent. If you have hard water, use only a light-duty softener with lukewarm water. Lay the garment flat and press into its original shape. Use forms or stretchers or draw a pattern of the garment on brown paper before washing.

by Hermann & Pearson

FOR YOUR children, wrapping the gifts they've purchased can be as exciting as all the other pre-Christmas events. Put them in business at a large table, with everything they'll need to make fancy packages. Most important: your undivided attention! (Try, if possible, to work out a schedule of only one child at the table at one time.)

Meadowview, A Leading Twin City Dairy whose varied products are shown above, has introduced many new "taste-treats." One is "Dip-N-Chip," which has a base of cultured cream and is prepared in two flavors — French Onion or Bleu Tang. The more popular French Onion is perfect as a dip for chips or crackers during social gatherings or for munching at TV time. Bleu Tang is enjoyed by people who prefer the zest and tang of an aged cheese. The dips are also delicious as a salad dressing, topping for baked potatoes or cooked vegetables and in a casserole. Convenient and economical, the dips can be served directly from the attractive plastic container which costs only 37c for an 8-ounce container. Another popular product is Sunkist orange juice drink. High in Vitamin C, which helps to ward off colds, the Meadowview drink needs no mixing and costs only 29c for a quart bottle. Meadowview Egg Nog is in demand during the holiday season. Rich and spicy, it contains no alcohol and children love it, too. It blends nicely with a beverage, if preferred by adults. Meadowview Ice Cream is gaining in favor in the Twin Cities. It has a fine, smooth texture and true fruit flavors. Area people may call the dairy for delivery by dialing PA 2-6511 or ask for the products at popular food stores.

Joe Schmitt Takes Early Scoring Lead

St. Norbert Star Has 86 Markers In 4 FVCC Starts

Menasha — Joe Schmitt, outstanding St. Norbert high school cager, leads the Fox Valley Catholic conference in scoring with 86 points in four games.

Although Schmitt's team has played four games, more than any of the other five clubs, the junior transfer from Preble is averaging better than 20 points per tilt and is expected to be the leader or a contender for the scoring title all season. He has a 1-game high of 32 against Marinette Catholic.

Pete Vanderhyden of St. Mary is second with 47 points in three games, including a high of 22 against Springs, third with 45. He was limited to seven in the Premontre game after making 20 against Springs.

Better Averages

Tom Parenteau of St. Norbert is fourth with 43 points and Larry Schmitt of the Squires and Bob Brusky of Premontre both have 32. Brusky and some of the boys below him in the point totals have better averages than Parenteau and Schmitt since they have played in fewer games than the Squire pair.

Don Cook of Marinette made 26 in his team's only start and teammate Bob Pecotte, the conference's top scorer as a sophomore last year, had 22 in his only league game.

Ed Hammen of St. John, who ranked second, has 18 points in two games. He was held to nine apiece by St. Norbert and Premontre Mike Scott of Springs, the third best scorer a year ago, has 23 in a pair of starts.

St. John, which has played two league games, has had a balanced scoring attack and as yet doesn't have anyone among the top 10 Tom Geerts and Gary Versteegen lead with 21 apiece.

Three conference games are scheduled before the teams take off for the holiday vacation. Marinette Catholic is at Premontre Wednesday night while St. Mary plays at Marinette Saturday and St. John is at Springs the same evening.

Fire Service Policy Deters Annexations

Decries Handpicking Of City Services By Fringe Areas

Extending fire protection service to individuals, businesses and industries on Appleton fringe, but outside the city, was called a deterrent to annexation Monday by the council's public service committee.

The mayor and city clerk were authorized by the council in 1948 to sign contracts for special fire protection to out-of-city places if the owner of the building posts a $500 bond.

In event of fire, the bond assures the city its charge of $300 for the first hour of the fire call and $200 an hour, or fraction of an hour, after that, will be paid.

Firemen are furnished a list of approved places. They respond to a report of fire at one of them no matter how far from whom they get a report.

List Given
Other buildings in certain out-of-city areas are provided Appleton fire department help only if an official of the local fire department requests it. Charges are the same, $300 for the first hour, $200 an hour, or fraction, after that.

On the special list, the fire department said today are Van Camp's club, Skall's Colonial Wonder Bar, Van Rooy Printing company, Kimberly Clark corporation's Lakeview mill, Valley Fair Shopping Center and Tornow's Fresh Food Market, all in the town of Menasha; Appleton Supply company, Valley Ready Mixed Concrete company, both a garage and a warehouse of Western Condensing company and the Nels C. Miller home, all in the town of Grand Chute; Schaefer Dairy Products company, Joe Grishaber tavern and two Grishaber homes, all in the town of Buchanan; the Wisconsin Michigan Power company's substation, town of Harrison, and Outagamie county hospital buildings in Grand Chute.

Surrounding areas to which firemen will be sent if local department officials request them include the towns of Grand Chute, Menasha, Buchanan and Harrison, the cities of Seymour and New London, the villages of Black Creek, Combined Locks, Kimberly and Little Chute.

Two New Requests
The subject came up when Fire Chief Neumann reported he had two new requests for placement on the special list.

Neumann said he took them to Mayor Mitchell, who advised that they be taken to the committee. He said they were from Appleton Seed company and Mullen Electric company.

Committeemen pointed out most names on the list already are furnished sewer and water service by the city and the continued handpicking of one more city service would make them "satisfied suburbanites who'll never annex and who'll stand in the way of annexation for others."

The requests were held pending more study by the

Townships Outvote City; Okay Budget

Contested Action At New London Gains Passage

New London—Chairmen of the townships in the New London school district and a minority of city aldermen Monday night adopted the disputed $497,954 school budget for 1959 without revisions.

The town chairmen voted, as previously, in a solid block in favor of the budget. Four of 10 aldermen also voted in favor to give its passage a 69 to 48 majority.

Votes were prorated on the base of $200,000 per vote on the equalized valuation.

Ald. Fredericks, president of the council, served as chairman of the meeting. He was engaged in a debate by Ald. Walter Fredericks, president of the council, served as chairman of the meeting.

He was engaged in a debate by T. F. Fitzgerald, whose court action nullified Mayor Gust O. Krueger's tie-breaking vote and postponed passage of the budget from Nov. 25.

The vote to raise the $315,841 by taxation to support the 1959 budget was voted unanimously.

Holiday Theme Carried Out in K-C Magazine

Annual Christmas Message Given by Corporation Head

Neenah — The third annual special Christmas issue of Cooperation, employe magazine of Kimberly-Clark corporation, was distributed to the 18,000 corporation people throughout the world this week.

In his annual Christmas message to Kimberly-Clarkers and their families, John R. Kimberly, president and chairman of the board, said in the frontpiece:

"This is the time of year when many things come into truer focus. Family and friends become central in our activity and fun. The religious base upon which our lives are founded gets more of the attention it deserves."

"Together, these things help remind us that there is still joy and goodness in great measure for us all — who share this great festival with fellow employes in many parts of the free world, itself a reminder that the ideals of love and peace must still be the number one goal for each of us."

The Christmas-time theme is carried out in the special articles. New features include a Donald Duck holiday safety contest for children of employes with entries due by Jan. 20.

The picture story in color and black and white portrays "Winter in the Deep Woods," and combines Christmas winter scenes, the home and religious life and the workday activities of Kimberly-Clark foresters and woodlands workers.

Memorable Christmas experiences of employes also receive recognition.

Report Overcharges On Seed Grain Prices in County

Oshkosh — Winnebago county farmers were cautioned today by Donald J. Tripp, assistant county agent, to be careful in placing orders for various small grain varieties. Several have had experiences of placing orders with out-of-state salesmen and finding themselves paying premium prices for products which can be obtained locally at the going price.

Wisconsin certified seed is developed from foundation stock at the experiment stations. Certified seed growers produce seed directly from foundation stock supplied by the University of Wisconsin. Throughout the growing season the production is supervised by field inspection and laboratory tests to insure high purity and good germination.

The certified grains have the bags tagged and sealed with a certified seed label prior to being sold, Tripp said.

Neenah Library Issues 'Potluck Reading' List

Neenah — Oral reading for entertainment as well as reading for pleasure top a list of books and anthologies at the Neenah Public library which Miss May Hart, librarian, has called "Potluck Reading for Busy Days."

Charles Laughton has combined many of the stories he has read aloud with great success on stage programs. television appearances and on lecture tours in a book "Tell Me a Story."

Along the same line is Edward Hodnett's "Poems to Read Aloud." Bennett Cerf has chosen selections from 60 authors, representing the work which he has enjoyed most, in his "Reading for Pleasure."

"The Sandburg Range" included in one volume a representative selection from the work of Carl Sandburg, one of America's most distinguished writers. James Thurber has contained what he feels is his best balanced collection of writing in "Alarms and Diversions," most of which were published originally in New Yorker magazine.

Other anthologies on the list are "A Treasury of Golden Memories" by Kenneth Giniger, "The Ladies Home Journal Treasury" in which John Mason Brown has chosen some of the best stories, poetry and articles from the magazine's 73-year history. "O. Henry Prize Stories, 1958" by Paul Engle and Curt Harnack, "The Bird Watcher's Anthology" by Roger Peterson, a collection of articles by naturalists, bird watchers and explorers, and "A Treasury of Christmas Stories" by Edward Wagenknecht, a collection planned to remind the reader what Christmas means and what people have made of it.

Chief Clark said good vision is essential to safe driving at this time of the year. He urged motorists to remove snow and ice not only from their windshields but from the side and rear windows as well.

"A driver of a car equipped with strong windshield wiper arms, a set of good, live rubber wiper blades and a working defroster to keep the windows clear has the decided advantage in traffic," Clark pointed out.

He urged drivers to take their time on icy streets and not to follow too closely behind other vehicles.

"Roads covered with snow and ice do not cause accidents. The real cause is the driver's inability to adapt to the hazardous conditions," Clark stated.

Though Mute, Deaf, Pupils Still Tell Christmas Story

BY PHYLLIS MONG

Post-Crescent News Service

Oshkosh — The fun of the Christmas program was in no way dimmed by the facts that ears didn't always catch the joyful sounds of Christmas, nor that tongues didn't always manage those sounds.

For three weeks students of the Oshkosh School for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing had carefully prepared their program for their parents and friends Sunday afternoon in the auditorium of Webster Stanley school. Though part of the Oshkosh public school system, the school serves the nearby communities as well.

This year's program had as its setting "Story Time on Christmas Eve." David Strudel, Appleton, Mary Pire, Neenah, and Sara Rhoades begged a story from their mother, Elaine Sitzberger, Menasha. In the story Tom Paull, Appleton, appeared as Wee Willie Winkie, along with a host of other nursery rhyme characters. Mrs. Ronald Wood was in charge of the nursery rhymes.

Tigers, who were in reality Dick Koehn and Joanne Tessen from Neenah, Julie Meyer, Kaukauna, and Dorothy Yarock, Omro, chased each other around a palm tree in "Little Black Sambo," directed by Mrs. Clayton Kiser. Two Menasha youngsters, Nancy Yocum and Brian Sitzberger, were Black Sambo's mother and father.

The last story was about the Gingerbread Boy who ran away from a little old woman, played by Janice Kohl, Appleton, and a little old man, Janet Baker, Neenah, and James Warnke, Fremont, were the city girl and boy who tried to catch the gingerbread boy. There was even a cowboy villain, played by Dennis Etheridge, Clintonville. "The Gingerbread Boy" was coached by Mrs. Jack Tucker.

Older students of the school presented the birth of Christ. William Corcoran, Winneconne, was one of the shepherds and Vici Lehl, Neenah, was the angel of prophecy.

Almost all the 45 students of the school took part in the program, including little 3-year-old Pamela Evans, who was Miss Muffet's spider. It would be hard to say who enjoyed the performance most, the actors or the audience. But it would be safe to say that performers and audience alike glowed with the pride of performance as they left the auditorium together.

General Manager's Position Gets Broad Authority in Packer Streamlining Move

Applications Invited for New, Strengthened Post; Executive Unit Will be Reduced to 6 Members

Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — The executive committee of the Green Bay Packers announced today a streamlining of the Packer organization and plans for the appointment of a general manager "with complete and broad responsibility for all phases of the football operation, including coaching."

According to the recommendations, the size of the executive committee — which now stands at 13 — will be reduced to six: the president, vice president, secretary, treasurer and three directors.

Remain at 45

The membership of the board of directors will remain at 45, the committee reported.

President Dominic Olejniczak, in making the announcement said, "The executive committee has naturally been as concerned about Packer misfortunes as all the loyal Packer fans, and over a period of weeks a special committee has been studying and analyzing in detail the whole system of Packer operation, and a new concept for the organization of the Green Bay Packers has been adopted by the executive committee."

Canadeo on Committee

The special study committee consisted of Leslie J. Kelly, Tony Canadeo, Jerry Atkinson, Richard Bourguignon and Fred Trowbridge.

Olejniczak stated that it was felt discreet, out of deference to "our present coaching and managing staff," to make no statements until the season ended.

"The special committee," said the president, "has tried to guard against any implication of Mr. Lewellen and Coach McLean or any individual being made a 'scapegoat' for Packer misfortunes and mistakes of the past few years."

Olejniczak said that Lewellen has not been responsible for football coaching or player performance, "that being the responsibility of the head coach and has in effect operated more as a business manager, sharing with the executive sub-committees the responsibility of many phases of our operation."

The general manager will be responsible to the president, said Olejniczak, and the executive committee's contact with him will be through the president.

The executive committee will no longer hold regularly.

Purdue, Illinois Capture Easy Home Triumphs

Boilermakers Slug COP; Illini '5' Raps Iowa State

By the Associated Press

There's no place like home when it comes to basketball and Big Ten teams are no exceptions.

Purdue, Illinois and Wisconsin all swept to relatively easy triumphs Monday night in non-conference action on their home courts.

Purdue slugged College of Pacific 78-62, Illinois trounced Iowa State 68-48, and Wisconsin defeated Missouri, 68-60.

Purdue scored its fourth straight triumph after losing its opener on a well-balanced attack led by Wilson Elison's 26 points. Four Boilermakers hit in double figures.

The Illini ran up a quick 16-1 lead. When Iowa State pulled within six points in the second half, Taylor went on a scoring spree to seal the victory. The win was Illinois' third in four games.

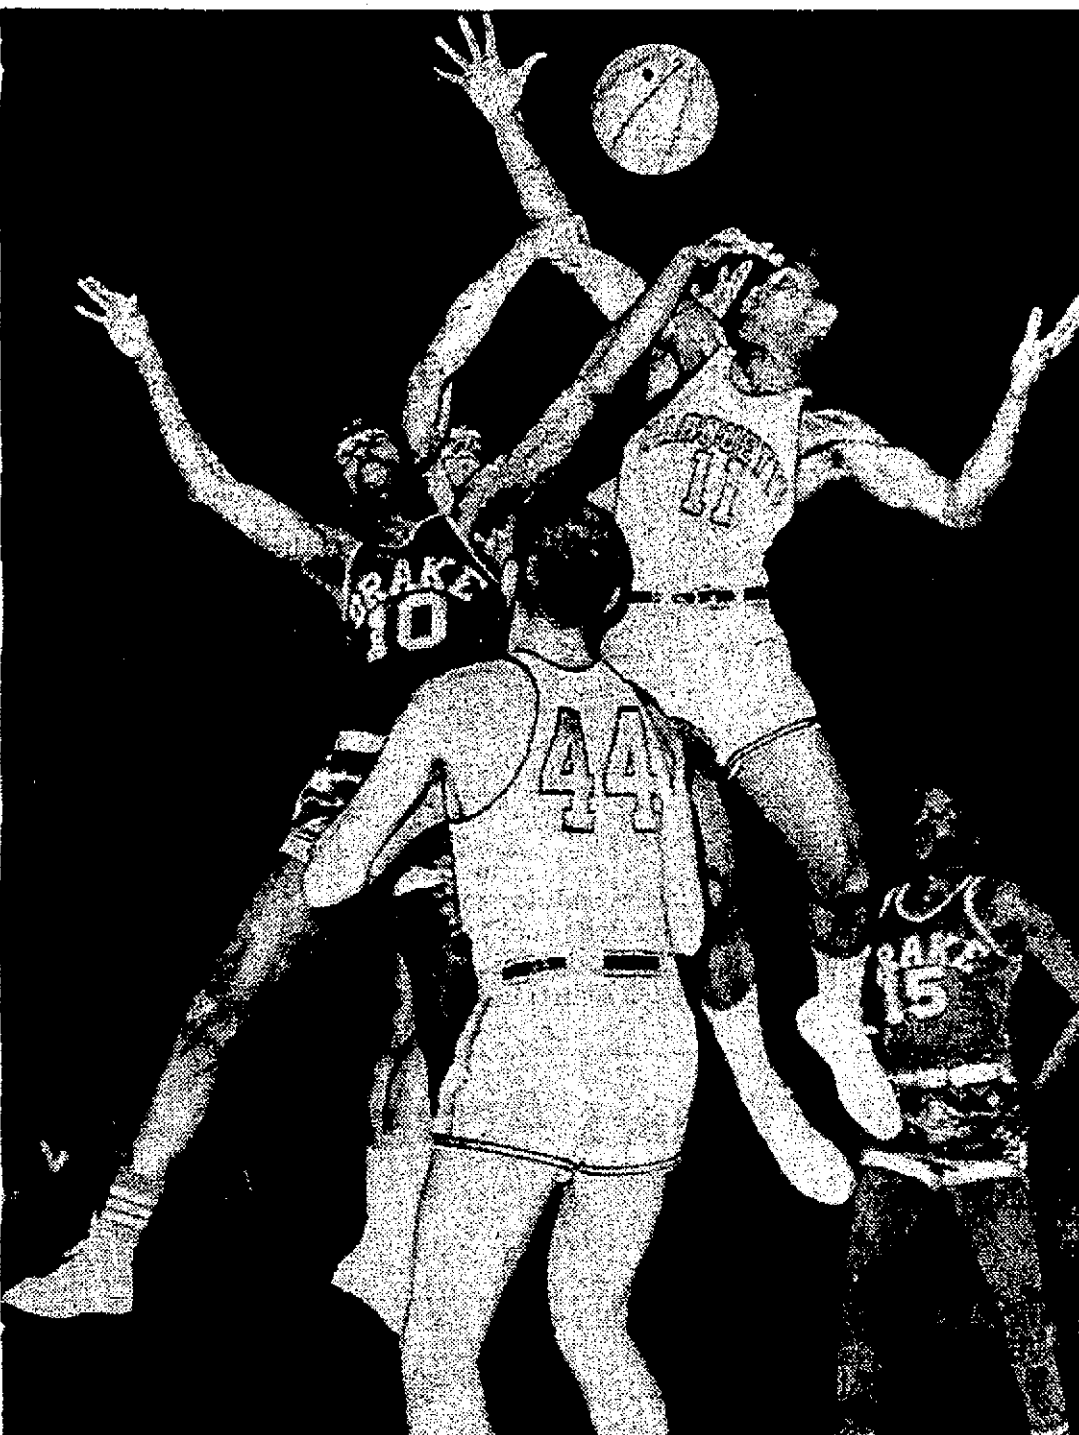

No Big Ten action is scheduled tonight but Wednesday night finds undefeated Michigan State at Notre Dame.

Kansas State 3rd; Northwestern Jumps To Sixth Spot

By the Associated Press

Cincinnati, Kentucky and Kansas State kept on winning basketball games last week and held their 1-2-3 positions in the second weekly Associated Press ranking poll.

But the ballots of 105 sports writers and broadcasters made it a lot closer contest for first place than a week ago.

Cincinnati's Bearcats, who have maintained a 96-point scoring average while winning their first three games this season, edged out Kentucky by just one first-place vote and 28 points. Cincinnati had 40 firsts and 938 points, on the usual basis of 10 points for each first, 9 for second, etc. Kentucky had 39 and 910.

Cardinals Give Frank Ivy New Long-Term Pact

Chicago — (U-P) Coach Frank Ivy, whose Chicago Cardinals won only two games this season, Monday signed a long-term contract with the club at a substantial increase in salary.

Managing director Walter Wolfner did not disclose figures but he said the contract was for a longer term than any ever given to a Card coach. This would make it for more than two years.

"We think Ivy knows what he is doing and what he needs, and we'll do everything we can to help an exceptional fine coach and we have given him a free, hand. We feel we are not too far away from a championship club."

Discipline Has Been Problem for Pal-Turned-Boss Ray McLean

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay—Tuesday Quarterback No. 12: The sudden suspension of Len Ford Saturday morning for breaking club rules might have helped to jerk up the team for Sunday's good effort against the Rams.

We're certain the Packers had their teeth sharpened for a windup victory before the Ford business. But the fact that this drastic action was taken added a serious note to their thinking toward the job at hand—and the future.

It took a lot of nerve by Coach Ray McLean to put the blocks to big Lennie. "That's an awful way to finish a great career," McLean reflected Monday, "and he'll be terribly sorry when he realizes what happened."

Ford played one game shy of 11 seasons, including eight with the Browns. He was an all-pro at least half a dozen times.

McLean could have overlooked Len's escapade—in tribute to his great career, plus the fact that the season had only two days to go. But even nice guys like McLean get fed up.

Suspensions could have happened earlier in the season—with other players. Several stiff fines were handed out instead.

Toughest Disciplinarian

Discipline has been a problem for McLean and probably for two or three reasons. First, he's an exceptionally forgiving and nice guy. Second, as an assistant for the past seven years, he was always a pal of the players. Third, the players said, themselves, they'd see that proper training rules and good conduct were observed. Item first explains itself.

Item second violates a lot of human nature—being a buddy with a man one year and then disciplining him—with a needle, the next. That isn't easily done in one year. Players don't like to be jabbed especially with something sharp but name me one player who wouldn't take a bit of needle for the purpose of getting a playoff check or some bonus money—for winning.

Paul Brown is the toughest and fairest disciplinarian in the league. His Browns don't miss the playoff often. Ford was an all-pro with a needle in his back.

Item third? The players charged with handling the "club conduct laws" just plain didn't do their job. They took advantage of McLean.

That's one side of the Packer problem of 1958. The other? You already know 'em—spoty quarterbacking, inconsistency on defense, key injuries, among others.

It looks like a long cold winter coming up—especially after California, but it ought to be interesting.

Removal of Screen To Give Mays More Room to Roam

San Francisco — (U-P) It will be harder for home run hitters and easier for center fielders next season at Seals stadium, the temporary home of the San Francisco Giants.

The front office announced Monday removal of the 10-foot center-field screen below the scoreboard. That stretches the home plate to center measurement by 15 feet.

That additional depth should help center fielder Willie Mays, although the Giants didn't mention it. It gives him more room for catches.

Many Browns Cried After Sunday's Loss

Playoff Game Is 3rd With Giants In Seven Weeks

Cleveland — (AP) — The Cleveland Browns were crushed—many of them in tears—after Sunday's 13-10 loss in New York. Coach Paul Brown admits. But, he adds, that will make a victory next Sunday all the sweeter.

"It's tough to have to go through that wringer all over again," Brown told the Cleveland Touchdown club Monday. "But they can make it better for themselves by winning this one and then the one with the Colts. That would be the big bonanza."

The balding Brown is not a man to spend much time looking back with regret to his club's pair of losses to the Giants by margins of four and three points. What looking backward is done the rest of this week will be for the purpose of learning facts needed to win.

"We'll wind up as tight as we can, and taken another pass at it," Brown said. "We have as good a chance to do it as the other team."

"They have a good football team, but so do we. I'm not making any apologies for Sunday. Everyone went all out, but some weird things happened."

Sunday's game will be the third meeting of the Giants and Browns in seven weeks.

Rory Calhoun Avenges Loss To Tiger Jones

Wins Unanimously Despite Cuts Near Both Eyes

Cleveland — (AP) — Middleweight Rory Calhoun can absorb plenty of punishment and still be dangerous. Ask Ralph "Tiger" Jones.

Calhoun, cut near both eyes in the early rounds of a 10-round bout with Jones Monday night, kept hammering away and earned a unanimous decision. The victory avenged a loss to Jones in Madison Square garden last month.

Larry Atkins, promoter of the scrap, said he had offered Carmen Basilio $25,000 to meet the winner. However, the former welterweight and middleweight champion did not say whether he would accept the match.

Jones Staggered
The 24-year-old Calhoun of White Plains, N. Y., staggered Jones in the sixth, seventh and tenth rounds, although he had trouble seeing because of the cuts.

The closely fought battle brought the 6,415 fans at the Cleveland News toyshop fight show to their feet cheering in the final minutes.

But rooters for Jones, who was a 7-5 underdog, booed the decision. Judge Herb Williams scored 48-45, Judge Charles Bill scored 45-44 and Referee Mike Minnich had it 47-43, all for Calhoun.

Despite Cold Weather, Giant Grid Tickets are Hot Items

New York — (AP) — Maybe it is time to destroy a weary legend—that New York is a blase, take-it-in-stride sports town.

The weather outside was sub-freezing Monday. Remnants of snow lingered.

Yet football tickets were the hottest item in town.

The tickets were for the game Sunday between the New York Giants and the Cleveland Browns in Yankee stadium.

Almost Midnight
Long, chilled lines of fans had stormed the stadium ticket windows until almost midnight Sunday after the Giants' 13-10 victory had set up a tie and a play-off for the Eastern conference championship in the National Football league.

The Giants' chief downtown ticket outlet at Grand Central station attracted winding queues of buyers. Season ticket holders jammed the lobby of the Columbus circle building where the Giants' office is located.

Even the Giants' coach, Jim Lee Howell, was pressed into service at the ticket windows.

Only the players had a day off.

Howell was so pleased with the Giants' play that he also declared Tuesday a holiday. Workouts for Sunday's game will start Wednesday. The Browns will practice in Cleveland as they did last week.

Television fans across the nation will see the game on CBS.

New Cardinal Manager Honored In Houston

Houston — (AP) — "How can a guy like that fail?"

St. Louis Cardinal General Manager Bing Devine said it and looked at his new field manager, Solly Hemus, who hustled his way to the big league despite those who said he couldn't hit, throw or run.

It was Solly Hemus night Monday in Houston and about 500 fans of the little second baseman came from throughout the country to pay tribute at a testimonial dinner.

Devine said he didn't expect the impossible but indicated he thought that if anybody could perform such, Hemus could.

"We can improve in 1958 but it might be difficult to catch such teams as Milwaukee," Devine said. "We think the Cardinals are in good hands."

"I only hope I'm about half as good as some of you people think I am," Hemus told his well wishers on accepting a check for an undisclosed amount from Houston oilman Raymond Arsh.

Attendance for six Steeler home games the season past was 140,592, down some 28,000 from the preceding year, despite the club's best record in 11 years and a switch to a bigger stadium.

Stevens Point Quint Tops Winona State

New Orleans — Arthur Persley, 135½, Red Cross, La., outpointed Ludwig Lightburn, 137½, British Honduras, 10.

Packers Will Streamline Organization

scheduled meetings, Olejniczak stated.

The general manager's position will be a full-time job. Among the general qualifications for the job as announced by Olejniczak are: "He must be a good administrator, personable, sensitive to the benefits of good public relations, a dominant personality, high intelligence, stable character, a high degree of knowledge of football and coaching and proven success in that field."

The president said that Le-wellyn would be given the opportunity to be considered for the new position. "Anyone may apply, and many individuals will be interviewed," said Olejniczak. "In addition, we will actually search the field and encourage applications. We will make it clear that all applications will be received and considered as strictly confidential communications."

Chooses Own Coach
When the general manager is selected, it will be his responsibility to decide who will serve under his direction — such as coaching staff, administrative assistant, talent scout, publicity director, etc. — according to the president.

The new plan of operation as approved also recommends that the by-laws be amended to eliminate the positions of chairman of the board and second vice-president.

The special committee recommended that the board of directors be kept at its present membership of 45, "because the board constitutes a ready-made nucleus of top-caliber, vitally interested men of executive abilities immediately available for major action and decision when needed, such as in matters of stadium expansion, matters affecting the organization in a vital way financially, and public relations."

A board of this size, said the committee, gives a good community and state-wide flavor of democracy while still having a fine working small executive leadership body under its direction.

Olejniczak said, "We believe that these changes will streamline the Packer organization and permit it to solve the present crisis more effectively. We should all remember, however, that the success of these changes will depend on our ability to find the right man to take active charge of the team. I want to assure the fans that we will leave no stone unturned in our search."

The Fox Cities can expect more extra-cold weather during the next 30 days, according to the weather bureau's long-range forecast.

Temperatures will continue below normal for the season, the bureau said. The Wisconsin-Michigan Power company weather station reported temperatures for the last 20 days were 14 degrees below normal.

Snowfall also is expected to be heavier than usual. The midwest, including Wisconsin, got a little relief today from the unseasonable cold, but the mercury continued to stand at a chilly level.

A high of 10 above was reported in Appleton for the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock today. A low of 2 below was recorded shortly after midnight. The temperature at 11 o'clock was 12 above.

Even normally warm parts of the nation have been subjected to the cold spell. It was freezing in Tallahassee, Fla., early today and near the freezing mark in Cross City, Fla.

Good winter driving conditions prevail in all areas of Wisconsin except the southeast section, the state traffic patrol reported.

Mrs. LeRoy Stohman is approved. Mrs. LeRoy Stohman also will serve on the committee, with three additional members which will be appointed.

Douglass L. Mann, fund chairman of the 1958 campaign, expressed appreciation to his co-chairman and divisional chairmen. Problems arising because the 1958 goal was not attained were discussed after a report of the budgets committee chairman, F. Joseph Sensenbrenner. A special meeting of the board has been planned for Dec. 30 to consider further these problems.

Eden Leaves For Holiday In Mexico
London — (AP) — Sir Anthony Eden, the ailing former British premier, left by plane today for New York and a winter vacation in Mexico.

"There can be no question of a return to active politics for me," said Eden, who has been under close medical attention for several years. He is going to Mexico with Lady Eden on doctor's orders.

"But this is a free country," he added with a smile. "and I can express my point of view from time to time."

And he did. "NATO is not enough because of its geographical limitations," said the onetime conservative prime minister who succeeded Sir Winston Churchill in April, 1955.

"Its flank can be turned in Africa. What is needed cannot be limited, as NATO is, to one continent. "Maybe a new organization will be brought into being. This will be difficult. But if it is to happen, then the sooner, the better."

OUTDOORS IN WISCONSIN Annual Bird Count To Start Dec. 20

BY CLARA RUSSONG
Green Bay — Bird students all over this country are beginning to make plans for the annual project in which they count the number of species and individual birds in a prescribed area. This year the Christmas bird count will be conducted between Dec. 20 and Jan. 1.

The purpose of this effort is to determine how many and what kinds of birds are found wintering in various places. Bird clubs or other groups, or even individuals working alone, choose one day during this period to do their counting. They must confine their census-taking to an area no larger than 15 miles in diameter, and must attempt to cover the entire area. The National Audubon society, which started this project more than 50 years ago, asks that bird counters spend at least seven hours in the field.

The Green Bay Bird club plans to make its count on Sunday, Dec. 21. If this should happen to be a very cold, stormy or windy day, the project will be postponed until the following Sunday. Four leaders have been appointed who will take their groups to various parts of the 15-mile area, centered roughly at the Green Bay Wildlife sanctuary.

Various Habitats
Those of us who take part in the count, usually find it to be an exciting and often surprising event. We follow our leader from one place to another in our part of the prescribed area, counting birds as we go. If open water is part of our field, we may jot down some-thing like this "2 bluewinged teal, 4 coots, 10 mallards."

In marshes we may discover a wintering blue heron and in fields we may see marsh hawks, horned larks, juncos, Lapland longspurs or snow buntings. We've never counted the birds in the open water of the sanctuary, but there is no reason why we couldn't, excepting those which are forcibly kept there by clipped wings or by being penned in.

Nearly every year there are some surprises — summer species like robins, mourning doves or song sparrows staying through the winter; northern winter wanderers like crossbills, pine and evening grosbeaks or Bohemian waxwings, or even species which aren't supposed to be here at all. These last include tufted titmice, red-bellied woodpeckers and mocking birds, all species which are considered southern birds.

Add Up Lists
At the end of the day we get together and add up our lists of species and birds. Additional information needed includes the names of the bird counters, the number of hours spent in the field, the miles traveled by car and by foot, the kind of weather we had, and the type of ground covered.

These reports are published in the "Audubon Magazine," and in "The Passenger Pigeon," magazine of the Wisconsin Society for Ornithology. The associate editor of the latter magazine, Harold Liebherr, 2150 W. Marne avenue, Milwaukee 9, is the person to whom to send your reports.

Cold, windy days are the worst for bird counting, as birds hide during this kind of weather. Best counts are made in years when the fall season is an open, mild one. The local bird club's best record was set in 1954, when 50 species were counted. In 1957 we had 44, in 1956, 37, and in 1955, 43.

City Given Interlake Park for Swim Pool

Consolidated Stipulates Work Must Start In Two Years, be Finished Within Five

Consolidated Water Power and Paper company today presented the city with a deed for Interlake park.

The park, city councilmen have decided, will be the site for an outdoor swimming pool scheduled for construction sometime next year.

The deed says Consolidated is making the grant "for the purpose of construction of a swimming pool."

It requires the city to commence construction within two years and complete construction within five years or the land reverts back to the company.

Transfer Cost
Cost of the land transfer will be $1.

"We are happy," said E. A. Starks, assistant treasurer of Consolidated, "to have this opportunity to assist the city in this worthy project."

Signed the deed were Stanton W. Mead, company president, and Thomas A. Duda, secretary.

Mayor Mitchell is expected to call a meeting shortly of the special pool committee and the board of public works is expected to undertake hiring a pool planner. Both committees have held off pool discussion pending arrival of the deed.

T-Shaped
Pool committeemen have said they will advise the works board to build a T-shaped pool like Neenah's. Last week William Miller, Neenah pool director, invited the committeemen to tour his plant. Mitchell has informed the works board the pool committee expects construction costs to total $250,000.

There has been no discussion of what accompanying facilities will be erected but at one time a bathhouse and candy-soda fountain was mentioned.

There also has been no discussion of what will become of the lighted softball field situated in the park and under jurisdiction of the recreation commission. The commission will meet early in January.

Postmaster Calls Mail Rush 'Slow'

Expects Increase Soon; Adds 35 Carriers to Force

Appleton Postmaster Francis Sumnicht said today the Christmas mail rush is less pronounced this year. He expects a greater influx of both incoming and outgoing mail within the next few days.

During the holiday season 140 regulars and 47 extras, are employed at the post office, including carriers and clerks, on Wednesday, 36 more carriers will augment the force and one man will be added to each route. In most areas, there are two mail deliveries daily.

Cancellations, which include primarily personal mail, usually average 35,000 on a normal day. With the great number of Christmas cards, there were 178,000 cancellations on Monday. This was lower than last year's figure for the same day—222,000—a record-setting total.

146,000 Letters
On Monday there were 146,000 incoming letters, compared to 159,000 last year. Outgoing parcels seem to be greater in number this year, he said.

Employees work overtime enough during the Christmas season to get out the mail. Hours are not rigidly set. The postmaster said that until Monday there was 1-day delivery of mail within the city. This time may increase with the greater amount of mail which must be handled.

Sumnicht said a clear, correct and concise address, together with early mailing each day, will aid prompt mail delivery, both in and out of the city.

Gun Jammed as Woman Fired At Herself

Waupaca — There were 10 shells remaining in the semi-automatic rifle Miss Ellen Mansfield, 41, route 2, New London, used to wound herself Monday morning, Undersheriff Ben Pipkorn said today.

Pipkorn said the gun jammed after Miss Mansfield fired six times at herself. She was superficially wounded six times about her chest, stomach and arm. She is to be released soon from New London Community hospital.

The undersheriff said the woman admitted to her brother and sister-in-law, with whom she lived, that she had inflicted the wounds herself. She had been despondent since a recent operation.

Max Mansfield was called by his wife at his work in Clintonville about 9:15 a.m. Monday and told that his sister had been wounded. He took her to the New London hospital.

Pipkorn said he found Mansfield's semi-automatic .22 caliber rifle leaning against the back of the garage. There was only one set of tracks leading to and from the garage.

Spain Living Cheap For U. S. Tourists

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Madrid — "The luxuries are cheap. The necessities are what's expensive..."

This quip, tossed off by the alert wife of a U.S. government official stationed in Madrid, pinpoints a fundamental aspect of Spain's economy today.

It's a situation favoring the fun-loving, expense-conscious American tourist—and a key reason the flow of U.S. tourists to Spain this year has rocketed 60 per cent over 1957 to a record-smashing 450,000.

But it's a dreadful trend for the average Spaniard, who somehow must make his fantastically meagre pay buy increasingly costly necessities in a period of roaring inflation.

And the unrest and resentment growing among Spanish citizens due to appalling economic hardship well may be laying the basis for a future political and social explosion in this strategic corner of Europe.

Better Rate
We were American tourists in Spain—a working man and wife thoroughly aware of what it costs to live back home. We were on vacation, though, traveling by car through the country. And our pockets were choked with pesetas bought before we left New York at the rate of 58 pesetas for $1 against the official rate of 42 for one dollar in Madrid.

You can imagine what a pleasure it was to find that a luxury room and bath in Madrid's and Seville's top hotels cost the equivalent of $3 a day per person. You can guess our delight when we discovered that a truly superb luncheon or dinner, including wines, came to $3 or $4 and it was hard to spend more than 50 cents for breakfast.

Clothes? Labor is so shockingly cheap in Spain—particularly in terms of U.S. dollars—that a visitor can hire a seamstress to create a high-fashion costume out of the finest materials in the world for a fraction of the charge in the United States.

Transportation? We took a taxi from one end of Madrid to the other; the meter registered about 60 cents. I took a long subway ride; the cost was a little over a penny.

Tips? It was embarrassing to hear the enthusiastic thanks for a tip in pesetas equal to a nickel or a dime—and for service far more gracious than we'd receive in New York for 10 times a dime.

Gifts Beautiful
And gifts... Exquisitely soft leather gloves for $3 to $5 a pair, a third or a quarter of their price in our land's luxury shops; leather boxes, jewelry cases, etc., for one-half or one-third the price tag at home; hand-designed jewelry, knives, scissors from world-famous Toledo for less than a dollar, inlaid end tables from Granada for $15.

All these items—top hotel rooms, fancy dinners and wines, custom-made clothes, taxis, luxury gifts—are scarcely necessities. Still, they are typical purchases you, as a tourist, would like to make too.

There's no doubt about it: Despite the fact that Spain has been in a galloping inflation in the past few years, it's still the least expensive area in Europe for an American visitor. Tourism is now Spain's largest source of U.S. dollars—but our dollars can buy plenty of luxury.

The very fact that our dollars stretch so far in Spain, though, reflects the abysmally low living standard of the average Spaniard.

Scarce, Costly
We can buy luxury services at bargain rates because the Spanish worker gets such a miserly wage. Typical for a clerk in Madrid is $25 to $30 a month. Typical for a sleep-in domestic is $10 to $17 a month. High for a skilled man working a tortuously long day is $70 or so a month.

On these wages, a Spanish family can't afford to buy meat, eggs, potatoes, etc., or adequate shelter. Necessities we take for granted—such as toilet paper, matches, electricity, simple appliances—are scarce, costly.

Of course, the American with dollars to exchange into the steadily weakening peseta can afford the necessities as well as the luxuries. Our citizens stationed in Spain live exceedingly well.

But what about the native? Over and over, as we drove through Spain and studied the impoverished soil, recoiled at the almost incredible backwardness of the farms, realized, how antiquated most of the country's industry and equipment is, we asked the question:

"How does the Spanish workingman manage to live on his tiny wage in this period of soaring prices? How does he survive? How? How?"

The answers help explain the ferment now bubbling beneath Spain's apparent calm.

Christmas Is Picnic Time In Australia

Sydney — The sun blazes down... men and women wear summer clothes to church... crowds pack the beaches... cold turkey salad is eaten by quiet inland streams.

That is Christmas day in Australia.

The day comes to the big cities of eastern Australia 10 hours before London, 15 hours ahead of New York.

Because it's mid-summer in the southern hemisphere, the Christmas-New Year period is holiday time in Australia.

Some small firms close for 10 days or so over Christmas and New Year. Those that stay open do little business.

Schools have their longest break, varying from six to eight weeks, in December and January. Working men and women who can manage it take their annual holidays at this time.

Many thousands of Australian families spend Christmas away from home. They live in canvas tents, caravans, holiday houses, hotels, and guest-houses.

But broadly the traditions of an English Christmas are maintained in this country 12,000 miles away from the British Isles.

More people go to church than on any other day in the year. Presents are exchanged. Santa Claus arrives for the children. Families try to be together. Special meals are eaten, with a special bottle of wine.

Many families still stick to the English Christmas day midday dinner of hot roast turkey, chicken, or duck, followed by steaming plum pudding.

But in recent years more and more housewives are cooking their poultry the day before and having it cold with salad.

Some take a hamper to the beach, have their salad sitting on the sand and wearing swim suits.

Marines Named Wright Honor Noted Brothers
Kitty Hawk, N. C. — (AP) — Thirteen Wrights, marines from Cherry Point, will arrive by helicopter Wednesday to pay homage to two Wrights, Orville and Wilbur, who made the first successful powered flight 55 years ago.

None of the marines is related to Orville and Wilbur. They will form an honor guard and render full military honors to the two brothers.

The Kill Devil Hills Memorial society, in cooperation with the national park service and the Air Force association, is sponsor of the annual event.

Sen. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.) will speak during the ceremonies.

Newspaper Strike Taking Huge Toll

Direct New York Business Losses Estimated in Millions of Dollars

New York — The city's newspaper blackout is taking an economic toll of millions of dollars.

Although there is no way of figuring the exact over-all total, unofficial estimates today indicated that direct business losses alone from the week-long shutdown run to at least $13 million.

This doesn't count indirect setbacks to merchants and other advertisers, cut off from their chief medium of promotion in the midst of the Christmas buying season.

Within the newspaper industry the financial toll is mounting at more than $1,500,000 a week—mostly in circulation and advertising revenues, rough calculations indicated.

Missing Sunday's bulky issue alone probably cost around $3,800,000.

Approximate Total
Approximate total losses of $13 million or more so far include an estimated $8 million lost in advertising revenue and $3 million lost in circulation income.

The advertising figure is based on total lineage of 3,981,311 for a comparable pre-Christmas week of December 1957, and with $2 a line used as a medium rate, according to figures compiled by Media Records, Inc.

The stoppage also has jolted workers in the industry—with acts before Christmas," he said.

Several stations had advertising time booked up, with a waiting list of would-be buyers.

"We're sold out," said Sam Slate, of WCBS radio.

"We're sewed up for 24 to 48 hours in advance," said John J. McSweeney of WMCA.

WMCA was eliminating one half-hour public affairs program and booking the time solid with commercials under the program title of "Shopping Guide."

Revenue from the program will be reinvested in newspaper ads after the strike ends as a public service, said Station General Manager Stephen Labunski.

WOI Sales Manager Bill McCormick said all sorts of new clients were seeking air time.

Movie houses and Broadway theaters particularly were taking to the air to get their bill of fare before the public.

Around Home
Mr. and Mrs. Arliss French, visiting Mars, Germany, on their "trip to outer space," evidently made a strong impression on folks in nearby Wesel, Germany.

Kurt Kracker, Wesel official, has this to say about the couple in a letter received Monday by Mayor Mitchell:

"I must say that Mr. and Mrs. French really were excellent goodwill ambassadors whom we were happy to receive in our midst."

"Let us hope that future space flight representatives to these planets may be equally sympathetic to the peaceful intentions of our community."

Blame Mishaps On Icy Streets

Kimberly — icy road conditions were blamed for two accidents over the weekend, according to village police.

Cars driven by Elroy Court, 35, 342 S. James street, and Mary L. King, 424 W. Third street, collided at Second and James streets at 10:45 a.m. Saturday.

At 12:05 p.m. Sunday vehicles driven by John Suran, 25, 210 E. Third street and Richard Colbour, 26, 3143 E. Main avenue, Little Chute, collided at Willow and Third streets.

77 Petition for Protective Device At Avenue Viaduct

A petition signed by 77 people calling for "adequate protection" for children walking under the E. Wisconsin avenue viaduct was filed Monday with the public safety committee.

Ald. Pointer and Ogilvie jointly sponsored a resolution calling for some protection at the Dec. 3 council meeting and the safety and street and sanitation committees have the matter under study.

Street committees were told Monday by Director of Public Works Duszynski that there is little chance the state highway commission will approve a guard rail like the one on Memorial drive bridge.

The petition was accompanied by a letter from Mrs. Tom Nooyen, 1109 E. Jardin street, who also called for some protective device along the underpass' sidewalk.

Reds Take Advantage Of Recent Outbreaks

BY TOM MASTERSON

Beirut — The communists right now appear to be making their boldest move in the Middle East.

It is now clear that the move is well planned, concerted and widespread.

The new communist surge stems from the chaos and confusion after the Lebanon insurrection and the Iraq revolt.

It is aimed at gaining a secure foothold — something the communists never before have succeeded in doing.

The governments of most Middle East capitals — from Kuwait to Cairo, from Beirut to Teheran, from Istanbul to Riyadh — are showing increasing anxiety over what is going on.

In Iraq the communists are tearing the new republic apart at the seams. For the moment, the communist menace is more dangerous there than in any other Arab country.

Communist Outbreak

The violent reception given U.S. Asst. Sec. of State William Rountree was reminiscent of that given Vice President Nixon in South America. It was communist inspired, led and conducted. Censorship kept newsmen from Baghdad from identifying the demonstration as communist.

Reporters who have visited Iraq in the last few weeks came away with this conviction — that if the communist upsurge is left unbridled in Iraq, much longer, communist takeover of the country is inevitable.

In Syria, meantime, the

Denied Crash; Fined $30 for False Story

Patricia Olson Also Pays for Driving Without License

A young woman who denied being involved in a hit and run accident and gave witnesses a fictitious name and address was fined $30 in municipal court today.

Patricia A. Olson, 502 1/2 E. Atlantic street, was fined $20 for failing to give proper information at the scene of an accident and $10 for driving without a license. The latter offense will cost her four points, the accident three more.

Miss Olson's auto hit a parked car in the 500 block of N. Union street and witnesses took her license number. She denied being involved in the accident until police took her to the scene and witnesses identified her as the driver.

Caused Accident

Carl J. Vander Putten, 18, 3140 E. Newberry road, was fined $25 for failing to yield the right-of-way and causing an accident at E. Atlantic and N. Drew streets Friday. Police said Vander Putten's car side window was fogged, preventing him from seeing an oncoming car. The offense will cost Vander Putten three points, the accident three more.

William J. Van Den Bogart, 17, route 2, Kaukauna, was charged with driving too fast for conditions and his driver's license was revoked for eight months. Judge Oscar J. Schmiede stayed revocation of the last seven months on condition Van Den Bogart is not arrested for a moving traffic violation for the next year. He ordered him to pay $2.95 court costs.

Jean I. Newell, 844 E. Commercial street, was charged with passing on the right, but the count was dismissed by the court. She was arrested after her car hit another and rolled it on its side Friday at N. Richmond and W. Atlantic streets.

communists in Syria. Why he does not do so remains a mystery. For one thing, all political parties except Nasser's own are outlawed in the U.A.R. Yet he permits Bagdash and his communist party to continue in defiance of law, in the face of the first stirring of unrest in the Syrian region since union with Egypt.

In Lebanon the communists are no threat. Yet they easily could become one if another country like Iraq fell to Egypt, could easily squash the

AVS Plans Course in Industrial Safety

A course in industrial safety and accident prevention will be offered by the Appleton Vocational and Adult school. The first class will meet at 7 p.m. Jan. 6.

The course is designed to meet the needs of companies which have no established safety program, or companies which prefer to train new personnel in basic and applied safety practices.

C. H. Kemp, safety director at Thilmany Pulp and Paper company, Kaukauna, will be instructor. The class will meet for ten 2-hour periods.

There also are openings in the sheet metal layout course which will begin Jan. 8, school officials said. The course provides training for the sheet metal worker to enable him to apply methods of drafting patterns for heating and ventilation systems.

Ask Chamber To Help Solve Traffic Jams

The chamber of commerce Wednesday night will be asked to help solve the S. Oneida street - W. Prospect avenue traffic jams.

Street and sanitation committee Monday said it recommends asking the chamber specifically to study staggered release times for mill workers.

It was felt mills and other businesses have shifts which end about the same time and contribute heavily to tie-ups at peak travel times.

Before the committee is a resolution calling for creation of another travel lane on Prospect for eastbound motorists.

It was suggested a policeman be stationed at the intersection during the peak times, but committeemen rejected the idea and will ask the council to turn down such a resolution.

Other suggestions included filling in the northern most canal along the Fox river and opening S. Appleton street under the Prospect avenue overpass.
